Rome Floats 'Trial Balloon' on Peace

Japan Cabinet Move Darkens Orient Picture

New Nippon Regime Expected to Take Stronger Stand; U. S. Warships Leave Pearl Harbor; 600,000 Ready to Invade Britain.

(By Associated Press)

An apparent "trial balloon" peace offer to Britain by the Axis powers—with an alternative threat of a full-blast assault on the British Isles—was floated by diplomatic circles in Rome today.

Simultaneously, the international picture was darkened by the reported resignation of the Japanese cabinet headed by Premier Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai. It appeared likely the Yonai cabinet would be succeeded by a group favoring stronger action against western powers in the Orient, including the United States.

This report coincided with the departure of strong forces of the United States battle fleet from Pearl Harbor, Hawaii—numbering two battleships 12 cruisers, and aircraft carrier Enterprise and a powerful array of destroyers

While the navy department maintained silence speculation was aroused that the American men o' war might be steaming to patrol British and French isles in the South Pacific

Reports from Europe said Germany now has an expeditionary force of 600,000 men and hundreds of ships poised for a cross-channel attack on the island kingdom. Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble France, reported the ships were waiting in harbors from Brest France, to Bergen, Norway.

A planned attack by these forces on the night of July 9-10 was delayed, it continued, because of a disagreement between Adolf Hitler's generals.

The fleet's escort of light gunboats, submarines and fighting planes, to be preceded by mine sweepers and waves of bombers, were ready when one group of generals headed by Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the German army, protested that it was too dangerous the paper said.

A modified plan of the attack may be launched Friday night, the paper declared.

The Von Brauchitsch group, the dispatch continued, argued that minesweepers could not clear the lanes well enough for such a Secretary Hits Decision by English to Close Burma Road to Chinese.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Hull today took sharp issue with the British decision to close the Burma road in the Far East, the sole source of supply for the armies of Chiang Kai-Shek, who is fighting the Japanese government.

The secretary of state through his press office issued the following statement:

"The secretary of state, in reply to questions regarding reports that at the instance of Tokyo the British government would prohibit temporarily the movement of certain supplies through Burma to China over the Burma route, said that this government has a legitimate interest in keeping open the arteries of commerce in every part of the world and considers that action such as this, if undertaken, would constitute an unwarranted interposition in

County Lags in Labelling Self By Air Markers

Richland county is lagging behind others in the state in the number of air markers, with only five of the county's nine cities and villages marked for planes, a bureau of aeronautics survey showed today.

The bureau launched a program about a year ago to get all municipalities marked in compliance with an Ohio law.

In Richland county, only Mansfield, Lucas, Bellville, Shiloh, and Plymouth have their names painted on roofs for air pilots The Mansfield marker is on top of Maxwell's department store

Shelby, Lexington, and Butler have not provided markers to comply with the state law, the bureau said. Incorporated cities and villages of over 500 population are required to have them.

Recover 62 Bodies From Mine Wrecked By Blast

Rescue Workers Wear Gas Masks on Trip Into Heading.

VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

Wives, Children Stand In Rain as Search Continues.

(By United Press)

PORTAGE, Pa.—The death toll in the flash explosion at the Sonman coal mine rose to 63 today.

The bodies of 62 workers were removed from the mine by gas-masked rescue workers and taken to a temporary morgue at this town's municipal building The remaining body in the mine was that of Thomas Shaw a wireman trapped deep in the 18th entry.

A coroner's inquest will be held as soon as state and federal mine inspectors have completed their investigation.

As rescue crews broke into heading No. 16, the death toll rose sharply this morning In the 16th entry, the bodies of Section Foreman James Monteeth and several members of his crew were found behind a barricade they had thrown up in a desperate attempt to save themselves from the deadly gas.

As the blast tore through the north dip section of the 50-year-old mine at 11 15 a. m. yesterday, a tongue of flame burned the bodies of some of the miners

Wives, children and relatives of the entombed miners, standings at the shaft entrances and ing at the shaft entrance and rain, silently watched the bodies being removed.

Twenty-one men escaped a few minutes after the explosion, believed caused by gas or rock dust, had rumbled through the north dip, trapping the men working almost 8,000 feet from the headings of entries No. 16, 17 and 18.

The disaster at Portage, a town of less than 1,000, some 80 miles east of Pittsburgh, was the third mine explosion in the Ohio-Pennsylvania-West Virginia soft coal district this year.

Ninety-one miners were killed at Bartley, W Va., Jan. 10, when an explosion ripped the No 1 mine of the Pond Creek Pocahontas company, and 72 were killed in an explosion at Willow Grove No 10 mine, owned by the Hanna Coal company, at Neffs, O., March 16.

Sheriff C. W. Davis of Cambria county and 100 special deputies, aided by state police, established a temporary morgue in the municipal building here.

Thirteen of the bodies were recovered last night. To prevent scenes and avoid confusion, the remaining victims were being identified at the bottom of the draft, 500 feet from the mine en-

$40,000 City Airport Job Near Last Stages

Officials Plan to Confer This Week On New NYA Proposal to be Sent To U. S. For Final Approval

A $40,000 improvement program for Mansfield's municipal airport neared its final stages today as National Youth administration officials, city and state officials and officers of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association scheduled a meeting for Thursday to draft final plans

The meeting was requested by Gessner A Brown, area supervisor for the NYA at Norwalk, who asked Mayor William J. Locke to call state and airport officers together for a session to "complete" plans for the youth project.

The proposal was drafted several months ago but was turned down by NYA officials due to the lack of funds by the government agency. Additional appropriations have since been authorized by Congress.

Improvements planned for the airfield would put the runways in first class shape and allow for landings during rainy weather.

It is designed to provide employment for 100 Richland county youths between the ages of 18 and 25 for a period of a year.

Major portion of the expense is to be borne by the NYA with the city and NAA jointly financing the sponsors' share of the cost, most of which will be met by furnishing materials and equipment.

Chief work to be done includes the lengthening and resodding of the runways along with the construction of an administration building and a state developed park on the route 13 frontage.

Confusion Holds Sway on Second Convention Day

Resentment Crops Up Over Treatment Of Farley; Platform Committee Still Snagged; Bankhead Calls For 'Tolerance, Reason.'

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—President Roosevelt took an increasingly active role in the Democratic national convention today, conferring by telephone with Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, one of the New Deal leaders of the Roosevelt third-term forces at Chicago.

By W. B. RAGSDALE

CHICAGO—(AP)—Democratic convention delegates grew restive for lack of word from President Roosevelt today after Speaker William Bankhead had bidden them to go into the 1940 campaign on the record of the New Deal administration, using "truth, tolerance and reason."

The keynote speech of Bankhead and a "farewell" address by National Chairman James A. Farley highlighted the first major convention session last night at the big, flag-draped Chicago stadium.

The delegates headed back this morning for another round of oratory before getting down to the real business of adopting a platform and naming a presidential candidate.

Farley, clad in a creamy suit and black tie, was given a tumultuous ovation when he urged the party workers to "give our successors and the new national party organization the same support that was accorded to the national committee in 1932 and 1936."

The delegates already had been counseled by Mayor Edward J. Kelly in his welcoming speech to "draft Roosevelt." But Kelly said the president always had turned aside his every suggestion that he run again.

Other leaders of states whose delegations are pledged solidly to Mr. Roosevelt for a third term said they had no more definite word from the White House than did Kelly. They had no instructions from anyone as to what to do.

Nor was there any general agreement by third term advocates over the question of how the president's name should be put formally before the convention—whether to have a regular nominating speech, have a delegate arise from the floor in a gesture of spontaneity and propose a third term, or simply let the other candidates be placed in nomination and poll the votes supporting the president. The latter are ample to nominate.

In this air of uncertainty, a split developed in the Massachusetts delegation, promised to Farley One delegate, Clem Norton of Boston, shouted in a caucus: 'Mr Farley is a phoney candidate. I want the world to know where I stand—with Roosevelt."

About the same time, a statement was coming from Ed A. Carroll, national committeeman from Washington state, saying that many delegates resented "the treatment being accorded Farley."

The vice presidential picture was even more confused. Potential candidates mushroomed on every side Secretary Hull, Jesse H Jones of Texas, Paul V. Mc-

FAREWELL?: Delegates Still Wonder If Farley's Quitting

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Jim! There's Jim! Is he going to tell us he's quitting? The Oklahoma office holder whispered it to the Oklahoma lawyer. A delegate from Ohio whispered it to his brethren.

James A. Farley stood there at the rostrum Twenty thousand persons were below him, before him, behind him, all bending forward not to miss a word; all straining, not to miss a facial expression of a gesture The word had gone around that this creator of victories this man who knew every Democrat from coast to coast "worth knowing," this man with a million friends, was quitting and this night he was saying his valedictory.

Farley lifts his head and raises his eyes to the highest pinnacle of the galleries Slowly they descend over the rows and rows of faces, the faces of the men and women with the votes to fulfill the ambitions of any man, to create, if they truly represent the people, a president of the United States. Most of them he knows by their first names and the rest are his friends.

What was in his mind, in those few seconds? Did he think, "oh boy! This crowd's with me! Watch me go to town!" Was he thinking that he, Jim Farley, aspired to be president of the United States? Was he thinking of the man in the White House who, even if Farley had helped to make him, had surely made Farley?

The reverse was over. He put his glasses on his nose, reached for

TRUCE: Ohio Dems Bury Ax At Chicago---Until November

By F. J. STARZEL

CHICAGO—(AP)—Harmony banners floated over the warring Ohio Democratic factions today but informed persons said there was no real end sighted for the long, intra-party dispute between ex-Gov Martin L. Davey former State Chairman Francis W. Poulson and Charles Sawyer, national committeeman

Sawyer's unanimous re-election as a committeeman by the Ohio delegation to the national convention ostensibly was the signal for burying hatchets that have kept the party in a turmoil the past four years

Actually, this produced no more than a temporary truce and an agreement to attempt to prevent any further public outbreaks of factionalism before the November election, asserted persons familiar with the internal situation

There were strong indications the national and state campaigns would be waged with a minimum of correlation but the faction headed by Sawyer, "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination, would avoid tangling with Davey supporters publicly.

The consolidation of national and state organization offices at Columbus, earlier reported as a major condition of the harmony program, now is regarded as only of minor importance.

Davey's aides indicated that separate campaigns would be es-

And some 200 persons who lined both sides of the street to see the strange spectacle were rewarded for their bravery and their patience by a two-game match between Martin and Curt Burkhart who volunteered just in time to save the entire affair from total ignominy.

Schools Cut Budget Request $33,184 Under Last Year

BOARD MAKES SLASH IN DEBT PAYMENT FUND

Asks $715,321 For Operating, Paying on Bonds, Interest During 1941.

The Mansfield board of education last night approved a budget request which asks $715,321 for operating the city's public schools and retiring schools bonds in 1941, a reduction of $33,184 from the 1940 request.

All but $74 of the slash is in the bond retirement and interest needs which will follow a natural downward trend next year. The board will ask the county budget commission $110,957 to pay school bonds and interest in 1941 as compared to $143,078 needed this year.

The request will seek $604,-864 for operating the schools next year. Last year the board sought $604,438 for operating purposes, but was granted only $560,392 by the county budget commission which has the last word in allocating funds.

Harold Bruce, board member and chairman of the school budget committee, pointed out to the board last night that $10,000 of the reduction for bonds represents the retirement of a bond issue during 1940, while the rest is a decrease in interest charges for 1941. Because it issued new bonds last year for the million-dollar building program, the board had to shoulder an additional burden of accrued interest in 1940 which will not be needed next year, Bruce said.

A $9,000 request for equipment for new buildings this year was dropped from the 1941 budget draft and the insurance needs were reduced from $4,000 in 1940 to $2,000 next year. The $11,000 freed in those funds was distributed in slight increases in a number of other operating funds.

Main Items In Budget.

Principal operating items in the 1941 budget include $12,895 for administration costs, $116,360 for teachers', principals', clerks', and supervisors' salaries, $19,000 for transportation of pupils, $85,775 for operation of the school buildings, and $19,050 for maintenance of the buildings.

In addition to the school budget, the board set up a $6,474 budget for the special vocational classes at the high school this summer under the national defense program.

That figure includes $3,144 to pay seven teachers for eight weeks, $540 for the salary of V. H. Oberlander, supervisor, for nine weeks, $2,000 for supplies, and $740 for building and equipment maintenance. The budget draft will be submitted to the state department of education for approval, and the federal government will provide all the funds for conducting the special training classes. Approximately 220 men are enrolled in the classes.

Drop Seventeen From WPA for not Taking U. S. Oath

COLUMBUS—(AP)—With only a few rural areas unchecked, the state works projects administration reported today that 17 of Ohio's 107,000 WPA workers had been dropped for failure to deny membership in subversive organizations.

Eleven were fired during the initial week's survey, and a follow-up seven-day check disclosed three more non-conformists in Cleveland, two in Toledo and one in Akron.

A WPA spokesman said that the total probably would not be increased materially, since reports had been filed by all populous areas.

Those discharged for failure to swear allegiance to the United States and disavow membership in Communist or Nazi organizations were all laborers or white collar workers in the "project class," the spokesman said. All appointive division employes signed the oath, from Administrator Dr. Carl Watson down.

The spokesman emphasized that the new "Alden clause" required WPA employes not only to deny present membership in banned organizations, but to forswear such groups while receiving WPA pay, under penalty of two years' imprisonment and a $2,000 fine.

British Shipping Reported at Top Strength

There is one Mansfield family in which there is no question as to who wears the trousers. A Mansfield woman went to the airport and made arrangements for flying lessons and made an appointment for her first lesson. But at the appointed time her husband showed up—alone. "I'm taking the flying lessons for our family," he said, a little grimly. Privately he admitted there had been a "round or two" on the subject and that he had "set his foot down."

It turned out to be something of a wild goose chase for Sheriff E. P. "Doggie" Long this morning when he dashed out to investigate a reported breaking and entering near Alta. A house had been opened and an electric stove "stolen." But when the sheriff learned that all the furniture in the place was mortgaged and that no one had lived in the house for several months, he turned back to town to complete his investigation. The stove had been repossessed by a Mansfield company on an order from the court. Incidentally, the sheriff collected 21 mosquito bites during the investigation, which were keeping him busier than a half dozen B. and E's. (breaking and entering.)

Mansfield has been experiencing some cool summer weather, but probably nothing compared to what California is having, according to a postal card received here by Postmaster Herman E. Homberger from R. H. Stuff, 11 Swanger avenue, rural mail carrier, who is on a vacation trip through the western and southern part of the country. On the card, Stuff said he visited the San Francisco fair last Tuesday, and that it was so cold there that day that men were wearing overcoats and women their fur coats.

FIND MYSTERY PACK ON PLANE

Authorities Refuse Comment On Package Seized at Cleveland Airport.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Cleveland detectives today refused to discuss the discovery of a mysterious package in the baggage rack of an airplane at Cleveland airport and the recovery a short time later, in another section of the city, of an automobile reported to contain bomb-making apparatus.

At the detective bureau, it was said:

"Nothing will be made public at this time."

Wayne L. Listerman, chief Federal Bureau of Investigation agent in Cleveland, refused comment other than to admit he had been notified of both the airport discovery and the automobile recovery.

The package was discovered in a transport plane that had come into the airport on a regular run, and was turned over to police ballistics expert David L. Cowles for examination. It was X-rayed at central police station and although one report was that the package contained cutting steel for a lathe, no official comment was made.

The detective bureau was just as reticent about recovery of the stolen automobile, although one detective said it contained "oversize fireworks."

JUDGE TO QUESTION CADDIES ON GOLF 'SHAKEDOWN' TODAY

Two of the older caddies who were in the "protective association" at Possum Run Golf club which was exposed when one of the boys was beaten up, were to be called into juvenile court this afternoon for questioning by Judge Charles J. Anderson.

Judge Anderson said today he was convinced that the boys who operated the "association" and "shook down" some of the other caddies for funds on a pretext of giving them "protection," were "too lazy to get out and do a real day's work," preferring to get their money the easy way.

Two boys, 14 and 15, were questioned yesterday after Mr. and Mrs. Leo Arntz, 41 Florence avnue, filed a complaint with authorities, charging that their son, Robert, 14, had been beaten about the chest and shoulders when he refused to pay toll to the members of the "association" for protection.

A number of the caddies were stripped of their clothes, some of them said, and forced to cross the road naked. Judge Anderson said that the youthful racketeers would take the trousers off a victim, shake the change onto the ground and the "racket boys" would scramble for the money with finder's keepers.

W. J. McGee, operator of the golf course, said today that so far as the club was concerned, the affair was closed and that the boys who had conducted the "shakedown," would be dismissed.

CONSTRUCTION, SEIZURES PUT TONNAGE HIGH

Verified Figures Place Nazi Loss at 275,000 Out of 4 Million Tons.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The British merchant fleet, swelled by new construction and ships of other nations gained through the fortunes of war, probably is stronger now than it was when the European war started, a study of available verified figures indicated today.

Germany claimed last week that up to July 1 she had destroyed 4,329,213 tons of British shipping, a figure which an authoritive British source said was more than four times the real losses.

The Associated Press figures, taking account only of merchant ships whose loss is admitted by the British or verified independently, showed the British had lost 243 ships of 932,158 gross tons up to July 14.

At the start of the war, according to Lloyd's register of maritime shipping, the British empire had 21,001,925 tons of shipping comprising 8,977 ships of 100 gross tons and upward.

The loss of 243 ships would leave the British 8,734 ships totaling 20,069,767 tons.

But this would not take into account Britain's production of new ships since the start of the war and her acquisition or control of an undisclosed amount of shipping gained when Germany invaded Norway, Denmark, Belgium and Holland and when the French signed Adolf Hitler's armistice terms.

The British never have released figures on the output of their shipyards but it is presumed to be large.

Germany started the war with 4,482,662 tons and has lost 275,735, according to verified figures, although the British claim she has lost 877,000 tons—sunk, scuttled or captured.

In the 51 months of the World war, the British lost 7,830,765 tons of commercial shipping, including fishing craft. Submarines accounted for nearly 90 per cent.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Miss Midnight's Diary.

New York is certainly having a great summer for the visitors from Idaho. The weather may not be so good, but the autograph hunting has never been better. What with planes, ships and clippers whizzing new characters into town every minute on the minute, it's no telling who you'll run into in the Broadway spots—and it's not hard to scare up a few imports who had lunch in Hollywood, but just felt like eating dinner in the Stork Club.

The out-of-towners were practically an army of occupation at LaConga Saturday night, ad libbing those mid-western rhumbas on the dance floor, and ogling the heroines from the movie magazines. They got their money's worth when Joan Crawford, who always looks like a film heroine should, but seldom does, sailed in with Irene Purcell and a party of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haley entertained Bert Lahr at a ringside table, Vincent Lopez sat quietly watching the floor show, Hannah Williams chatted with her brother-in-law, and Carol Bruce, the "Louisiana Purchase" lark, turned up with Matty Fox, the Universal executive.

Half the onlookers gasped when the headwaiter put a small table for two on the parquet, and led to it a beautiful platinum blond in a shimmering gown, who looked—and a flutter of sound went over the room—exactly like Jean Harlow.

It was, I think, Joan Crawford who first identified her for the startled ringsiders. The girl who looked like Jean Harlow was Mary Dees, who finished the picture "Saratoga" after Jean died.

Sunday night at Leon and Eddie's is beinning to look as though the returning week-enders poured in straight from the highways without bothering to change from what they were wearing at Sands Point, Mamaroneck, Jones Beach, or Coney Island, making the atmosphere on Swing Street as rural as a seed catalogue.

The girls wore little numbers right out of the sun-and-surf shops, and a tie on a male was as rare as a Garbo interview. Gypsy Rose Lee was the only gal who was really dressed up—she had on a draped print, a big hat, and green gloves right up to her elbows. Lyle Talbot was alone (this really belongs in the news item class). Maxie Rosenbloom was with his bride, as usual, and models Puk Paaris and Dorothea Sparrow did a sister act in blue sports dresses with low cut sun backs.

Yes, indeed, the scenery around Leon and Eddie's certainly is improving.

Right in the middle of the floor-show, if I may call it that, at the Club 18, the telephone rang. Hollywood was calling Jack White, so Mr. White, if I may call him that, excused himself to the audience—which included such numbers as Carol Bruce, Tony Martin, Mr. and Mrs. William Gaxton and Victor Moore—and went to the phone to speak to Pat O'Brien, who was on from the cinema city.

Mr. O'Brien had no sooner said hello than he asked how long Mr. White had been rooting for the Giants. (A baseball team.) Mr. White replied he reckoned it was close to 35 years.

"Say that to Ann Sheridan," Mr. O'Brien requested.

Mr. White repeated that he had been a Giants fan for 35 years.

"Okay," said Mr. O'Brien, "I have just won a five dollar bet with Sheridan."

"The charge on this call," cooed the l. d. operator, "is twowelve dollars."

The other night Jimmy Kelly's rowdy boite on Sullivan street was invaded by two hide-outers who usually patronize places more gilded, if less full of fan dancers. Not everyone recognized them. They were John "shipwreck" Kelly and Brenda Diana Duff Frazier.

The Beachcomber was full of celebs—not that you would see them in that light, but they were there—on the same evening.

Tyrone Power drifted in with Annabella, who was what the lads call a vision in white; Paulette Goddard rushed in and out, regrettably not in her bathing suit. Alexander Korda and Ernst Lubitsch sat together and confabbed with such earnestness I'm sure they must have been deciding the cinematic fate of half the stars in Hollywood, and the typewriter tappers were represented by Henrick Wilhelm van Loon and John (Pal Joey) O'Hara. Betty Hutton danced an old fashioned shag with Sidney Piermont, the booker, and at a ringside table Milton Berle tossed off quips that made blond Grace Riley giggle at every word.

A star of yesterday and a possible star of tomorrow sat in the same firmament at the Algonquin Wednesday dinner time — Madge Kennedy, looking almost as youthful and pretty as she did in her film hey-hey day, and Betty Allen, who is now Ethel Merman's understudy in "Du Barry Was a Lady," but of whom bigger things are expected. Other Algonquin pews were filled by Constance Collier, Oscar (Life With Pappy) Serlin, Frances Fuller, Worthington Minor, and Flora Robson.

Oscar Serlin asked Frank Case if he had heard anything about the health of the ailing Alexander Woollcott.

"Yes," replied Case, "I hear that he's noticed an improvement—and he's furious!"

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If anybody's thinking about laying out a new college campus, here's the place to come.

I never knew how a campus should be laid out until I saw the set of "Too Many Girls," which offers the buildings and grounds of dear old Pottawatomie university, mythically located at Stoppep, New Mexico (a town which also ain't).

The set will offer more ideas of course, if the youthful campus cuties are decorating its environs and parading solemnly through its stately halls of learning. I can't guarantee any solemn academic parades, however, for come to think of it there isn't a ball of learning in sight. This too is an idea for campus layer-outers.

What strikes you first about dear old Pottawatomie is the way they've provided for dance routines. Take that pueblo-type adobe home of the college president. There's a balcony on the second story and you reach it by two wide flights of stairs, whereon the coeds and eds can—and do—practice their steps. In the patio in front there's a big sun-dial like a half a drum on which you know Hal Leroy and Ann Miller are going to tap a conga. You're right because that's what they're doing now. They and the other kids are warming up, in the prexy's patio, to the strains of a rhumba orchestra which plays that hot lit called "Give It Back to the Indians."

The professor over there, the tall, distinguished gent in the sweater, is George Abbott, some time of Broadway, who is taking a fling at movie-making. The associate professor, stocky and dark, is Leroy Prinz, whose course is dancing. Between Abbott's direction and Prinz's dance direction the kids never get a peek at their books. But they get the essentials of a college education: Swing, hot rhythm, rumba and Conga and song.

Campuses need walks and stairways to swing and tap on. Sundials for steps. And—of course—youth.

"Too Many Girls" has all that. Youngsters so young they make an old man feel older. So active, practicing taps and jitterbug stuff even when they could be resting, they wear you down. I called for my cane and decided to grow a beard long and white, after Ann Miller asked if I'd heard of the Conga and had ever seen it. She was very sweet about it, to be sure, and respectful—as any child of 19 would be to a patriarch of the Schottische and Polka era.

Three of the principals—Ann and Lucille Ball and Richard Carlson — weren't in Abbott's stage production. Most of the others were, including Desi Arnaz, the Cuban youth whose rhumba and tango have the local girls dithery.

Benten Sparkles In Relief Role As Braves Triumph

Tribe Loses Again

Milnar Fails to Last; Indians May Use Dobson Or Eisenstat Today.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers have booted each other out of the American league leadership so often that reckoners of team standing have an excuse for dizziness.

Cleveland forfeited top position to Detroit by losing to Washington, 8 to 6, yesterday and Manager Oscar Vitt was gloomy about the Tribe's chances today of making up the deficit of two percentage points separating his club from first place.

He hoped to use Joe Dobson on the mound to stave off a third straight defeat at the Nats' hands, but feared the relief hurler's stint yesterday might have dulled his starting effectiveness. The alternative was to call on Harry Eisenstat who hasn't pitched a full inning in almost two months. Vitt counted on Johnny Allen for relief.

Bucky Harris, Senators' manager, nominated Southpaw Joe Krakauskas.

The Nats clubbed the Indians' starter, Al Milnar, for six hits in three innings, uncorking a five-run attack in the third. Nate Andrews hurled hitless ball for two frames. Johnny Humphries only one in one, and then the Senators collected four more and two runs in the last two inings off Mike Naymick. It was Milnar's fourth defeat against 12 victories.

Sid Hudson, who traveled the route for Washington, yielded only seven hits.

WARNER PETERSON

Warner Peterson Defeats Spear to Cop Initial Mansfield Net Crown

A NEW THREAT stands on the horizon in Mansfield tennis circles today.

The net ace is Warner Peterson and the way he walked off with top honors in the annual Woodlawn tournament places him in the front ranks of Mansfield amateur stars.

Peterson, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Peterson of 429 Park avenue west, entered his first Mansfield tourney last week and swept through without much trouble.

In reaching the finals he beat W. E. Slabaugh and Lowell Bournes. He tackled Bob Spear, a dangerous rival, in the finals at Woodlawn Sunday and won the championship in straight sets. Bob Keefe held the title in 1939.

But that isn't the only title Warner has annexed this year—he copped the Ohio State university singles crown while attending the college for his Master's degree in English this spring.

He was captain of the Allegheny college team and among the crowns won during his college days included the North Western Pennsylvania Junior singles championship in 1933. Peterson also won the Chautauqua Lake singles crown in 1935.

Warner is preparing to participate in the annual city tournament which will be held late in August, and he will enter the classic as one of the favorites.—By C. M.

Jack Dempsey Wins Again

Knocks Out "Bull" Curry In Second Round.

DETROIT — (AP) — In a weird combination of boxing and wrestling billed as a "boxing exhibition," Jack Dempsey added wrestler "Bull" Curry, former Hartford, Conn., policeman and onetime boxer of sorts, to his list of fallen foes last night.

The former heavyweight champion of the world knocked out Curry after one minute and five seconds of the second round with a left to the midsection—the only punch he was able to land during four minutes of wild disorder, climaxed by Dempsey and the referee kicking Curry out of the ring after Curry slugged Jack from behind.

Dempsey weighed in at 205 pounds, well over his old-time fighting weight. Curry weighed 195.

A crowd of 4,509 brought a net gate of $4,988.50, half of which went to Dempsey.

Braves Rally To Win

Pitcher Hurls Shutout Ball As Mansfield Comes From Behind to Win, 9-7.

By CHARLES MARTIN

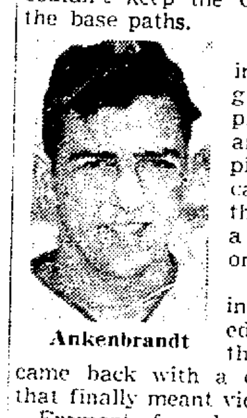

SIX MONTHS ago he was just a high school student, but today he is one of the bright spots in the Mansfield Braves' hurling department.

The lad is Rex Benten, youthful righthander, of Ashland, who last night went into the ball game to whitewash Fremont for two innings while the Braves were rallying to register a thrilling 9 to 7 victory before an "Eagles night" gathering of 400.

Mansfield was trailing by a 7 to 4 count going into the seventh inning of an Ohio State league setto which was halted once because of rain and the club countered twice in that frame and iced the tilt with a three-run rally in the eighth.

Manager Dewey Stover and his Warriors invade Tiffin to meet the Mudhens tonight and will return to the Fair park to perform before an "American Legion night" crowd at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday. In a preliminary attraction Wednesday, the American Legion Junior baseball club meets the Shelby Juniors at 7 p. m.

Tony Angaran started on the hill for the Braves last night, but he couldn't keep the Green Sox off the base paths.

Ankenbrandt

The first six innings of the game were played in rain and the umpires finally called time in the sixth when a downpour hit on the field.

That breathing spell worked wonders for the Braves who came back with a determination that finally meant victory.

Fremont forged ahead in the early innings, but Angaran settled down and hurled shutout ball after the fourth. He was removed for a pinchhitter in the last of the seventh and Benten took over, Angaran registered eight strikeouts in the seven frames.

The Green Sox, playing under a new manager, Left-fielder Ted Haas, picked up a 3 to 0 lead in the second, the Braves, however, scored twice in the third and added two more in the fifth to whittle down the advantage.

Gene Woodling and Dick Morse were the batting stars last night. Both figured prominently in helping the Braves emerge with the decision. Each batted in three runs.

In the seventh a walk and a hit placed two men on the bases and Morse came through with a timely double to send the men home. Then in the eighth this is the way the Braves gained the lead.

Howard Beals and Stover walked; Beaman relieved Fenney on the mound for Fremont. Herb Woodten sacrificed. Woodling cracked a single over second base to score Beals, and Stover romped home on Harry Seigbert's single to center.

Woodling had three singles, while Frankie Ankenbrandt and Morse collected a double and single apiece. Ankenbrandt, who replaced Hal Hundemer at second base looked impressive. He started one double play and was in on another one.

Pilot Stover announced today that Hundemer, who suffered a thumb injury at Fremont Sunday, has been placed on the suspended list for seven days. The Brave officials stated today that Tony Scotti, righthand hurler, has been returned to Fargo-Moorehead of the Northern league.

Player Protests Against Fremont Club Is History.

FREMONT — (AP) — The stormy protests of a dozen baseball players against release of Ray Caldwell as manager of Fremont's Ohio State league team apparently is history.

The club's board of directors met last night, but not a single objection to Caldwell's removal was voiced.

Pitcher John Orphal, representing the players, informed the directorate the team "would play ball." The board then decided to conduct a one-week campaign for funds to meet a substantial operating deficit.

The club's owners last week proposed to name Garland (Luke) Sewell, the Green Sox' second sacker, as Caldwell's successor, but all players except Caldwell and Sewell threatened to strike to retain the former Cleveland Indian hurler.

Paul Shank, loop president, warned them they would face permanent suspension from organized baseball if they carried out the threat, and they agreed to play under the temporary management of Outfielder Ted Haas.

It was understood either Haas or Sewell would be at the helm pending the directors' drive for funds—a campaign that will determine whether Fremont is to continue to have professional baseball.

Schoolmasters Soar Back In First Place

A VICIOUS, 17-hit batting attack gave the Schoolmasters a 13 to 0 victory over the Catholic Foresters last night at Blue Goose field, sending the Schoolmen into undisputed possession of top position in the Y. M. C. A. Club league.

Scoles was on the mound for the Schoolmasters, allowing the Foresters a meagre two hits, both of them made by Malaska, the Forester catcher.

Rex, Schoolmaster catcher, led the hitting by copping three hits off Rachel, Forester hurler, out of three trips to the batter's box. Scoles was second best with three hits out of five trips to the plate.

Until last night the Schoolmasters shared first place in the loop with the W. B. Union. The W. B. Union did not play last night.

Senators Latest Troublemakers In Junior Loop

Nats Are Now Circuit's New Wrecking Crew; Knock Detroit, Indians Out of Lead.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE rest of the American league finally has succeeded in getting the proper respect from the St. Louis Browns, but now the circuit has a new wrecking crew.

The Washington Senators, who last week temporarily deposed the Detroit Tigers from the American league lead, knocked the Cleveland Indians off the top perch yesterday.

Washington won't be any more than a troublemaker this year, but Bucky Harris' Senators are doing their bit to keep the race in the junior circuit uncertain. They even climbed from the cellar to sixth place with their 8-6 decision yesterday, the second straight over Cleveland.

The Browns, who were getting into everybody's hair through May and June, suffered their 13th consecutive defeat as Joe Cronin and Jim Tabor led the Boston Red Sox to a 10-6 victory.

Detroit nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics 9-8 to regain first place. Eight of the Tigers' runs were crammed into the fourth inning when Hank Greenberg hit his 17th homer with two on. A later circuit clout by Rudy York decided the game.

The Chicago White Sox halted a four-game winning parade by the New York Yankees with a 3-2 squeeze play. Joe Kuhel's 14th homer in the first half of the eighth inning proved to be the deciding run.

The Cincinnati Reds won another one run verdict, their fourth in six games, 3-2, over the Phillies and lengthened their margin over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers to three full games.

The Dodgers divided a doubleheader at Pittsburgh, winning the first 10-1 and losing the second 4-3. Whitlow Wyatt spaced ten hits effectively and hit a home run, a double and a single in the first game.

But the Pirates pounced on Tot Pressnell for four runs in the second and third frames of the nightcap.

The New York Giants were futility itself as they dropped a 5-3 game to the Chicago Cubs. The Terrible Terrymen made 15 hits to seven for the Cubs, but left 16 runners stranded. Hank Lieber came to bat in the last half of the seventh and hit a home run with two on.

The St. Louis Cardinals massacred the Boston Bees 12-2 with a 20-hit bombardment led by Ernie Koy, Mickey Owen and Joe Orengo. Lon Warneke allowed eight hits.

DECISIONS FRAZER

CHICAGO—(AP)—Jimmy Bivins, 160, Cleveland, decisioned Paul Frazer, 165, Chicago, in an eight-round bout here last night. Mike Gamiere, 137½, also of Cleveland, drew with Gene Ward, 132, Chicago, in another eight-rounder.

Walters Keeps Pace With Old Hurling Score

Bucky Confounds the Experts by Copping 13th Win.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Bucky Walters, the league leading Reds' ace hurler who the experts said couldn't repeat this season, is keeping pace with his 1939 record, closed with 27 victories to his credit.

With the season approximately half gone, Walters marked up his 13th victory before Cincinnati engaged Philadelphia in the final of a series today with Johnny Hutchings on the mound opposing Hugh Mulcahy.

Walters took a 3-2 triumph from the Phils yesterday to put the Reds three full lengths ahead of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers, who split a double header with Pittsburgh.

The 30-year-old hurler, who found the going rough and lost four games shortly after the season opened, allowed but five scattered hits and scored the winning run in the eighth.

Ike Pearson did a fair job of holding Cincinnati until the seventh when the Reds scored on a single by Frank McCormick and Ernie Lombardi's double to break a one-all tie.

The Reds counted their third run in the eighth off Sylvester Johnson on a double by Ival Goodman and singles by Bill Werber and Walters.

Johnny Rizzo clouted a homer over the left field wall in the ninth, after scoring the Phils' other run in the fourth.

Langhurst Leads Willard Combine Against Hermans

Hurler After Seventh

Mansfielders Try for 12th Straight Victory Of Season.

JIMMY LANGHURST, Ohio State star fullback and captain-elect for 1940, will lead the Willard Elks lodge softball team against the Sons of Herman tonight at 6 p. m. at the Liberty park diamond.

The unbeaten Hermans will be seeking their 12th straight victory of the season.

Jimmy Fullager, ace hurler for the Hermans, is scheduled to take the mound for the Mansfielders. He will seek his seventh straight victory of the season.

Langhurst, who dazzled Ohio State opponents last year with his driving line plunges, is slated to take over the first sack for the Willard club.

Young Lady With Ambition

And, if the opinion of Mercer Beasley counts, 14-year-old Betty Deylen of Spring Lake, N. J., may be a champion some day. Beasley, who discovered and coached Frank Parker, expects great things of Betty.

Expect Stars To Take Crown

McNeill Among Contenders For Tennis Title.

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Netters who fire the heavy artillery in American tennis were expected to continue blasting the less experienced but by no means less enthusiastic "small fry" out of the Maryland state and middle Atlantic tournament today at Baltimore Country club.

* * *

Of course, there's always the possibility that some little-known netter might upset calculations by knocking off a nationally-ranked star.

But after scanning the field in yesterday's opening round, observers expected such players as Don McNeill, Welby Van Horn, Elwood T. Cooke and Gardnar Mulloy—seeded 1, 2, 3, 4 in this joust—would still be around when competition gets warmer later in the week.

McNeill yesterday eliminated Henry Baetjer of Texas university 6-3, 6-4 as the other top seeded stars also won matches.

St. John's softball club climbed out of the cellar by taking the First Presbyterians, 8 to 6, in the other Church league contest last night.

The winning pitchers were Augustine of the St. John's and Wolf of the First Lutherans. The losers: Rex Collins, First Presbyterian, and Hazelett, First Methodists.

Hero And Goat At Same Time

Dayton Hurler Gets No-Hitter But Loses, 2 to 1.

DAYTON—(AP)—A no-hit pitching performance, in which the hero also was the goat, featured last night's rain-saturated Middle Atlantic League program.

Virg Ricketts, Dayton hurler, mainly kept the ball so far from home plate that the Youngstown Browns had no chance to hit, but the wildness gave the Browns a 2-to-1 victory in a game limited to five innings by rain.

* * *

The two Youngstown scores came in the first inning on a walk, a passed ball, a wild pitch, an error, an infield out and an outfield fly. Altogether, Ricketts was charged with five bases on balls, two wild pitches and a balk—but no hits.

In another rain-shortened game, the Akron Yankees chalked up an 11-to-2 win over the Canton Terriers in six innings.

Portsmouth trimmed Charleston, 10 to 5, in the only regulation-length game, featured by two homers for Manager Alston of Portsmouth.

Talbot Likes Henry

Says Lew Has Never Taken A Hard Blow Around The Body.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — (AP) — At the risk of being disbarred from the local chapter of the ex-Texans' association, I'm afraid Lew Jenkins is due to take a bad beating from Henry Armstrong tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds.

The reason is that Jenkins, though he fought his way to the lightweight championship in a sensational manner, has not up to now been called upon to show that he can take a hard punching around the body. Not the kind; anyway, that Armstrong hands out.

In scoring the dazzling succession of knockouts that gained him his shot at Lou Ambers, Jenkins took no punishment to speak of. All he did was thump his opponent a few times, and then they turned on the lights and started stacking the chairs.

It was the same against Ambers. Weakened by making the 135 pound limit, Ambers simply crumpled under Jenkins' furious onslaught and scarcely landed a blow worth noting. It was as one-sided a title fight as anyone ever saw.

So that brings the lean Texan up against one of the greatest little fighters the game ever saw, champion of the weight division above Jenkins' and the spoiler of many a pugilistic hope. The Negro is a bitter, remorseless fighter who can take a punch or a dozen punches and continue to come on.

Jenkins' backers are counting on a knockout. But knocking out Armstrong seems to be quite a problem in itself. Ceferino Garcia, a near-middleweight with a mule's kick in his right hand, laid perhaps a dozen of his famous "bolos" right on Henry's lug one night in the Garden, and all it got him was a licking.

Baseball Beckons Farley in New Career

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO — (AP) — It's rather common knowledge now that the prosperous Ruppert regime of the New York Yankees is at an end.

The new owners of the club, likely a syndicate headed by Postmaster General James A. Farley, will have quite a task ahead of them if they expect to match the record of the late Jacob Ruppert.

The colonel, who died in January, 1939, at the age of 71, became sole owner of the Yanks in 1923. They won the pennant that year on the last day of the season and captured eight other flags while the wealthy brewer was alive.

Farley has behind him a distinguished record as chairman of the New York Boxing commission and as a political strategist. His boyhood friends say he was a fancy first baseman in his day.

The report that Farley would head a syndicate to take over the Yanks has been prevalent for some time, but Attorney Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, representing George Ruppert, declared yesterday that negotiations with the Farley group had "gone from the "speculatory to the very realistic stage." George Ruppert is a brother of the late owner and now vice-president of the club.

* * *

Mahoney added the sale probably would be consummated in two weeks for a price in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. The lawyer explained the Ruppert estate needed cash "to meet inheritance taxes." Farley, here for the Democratic convention, declined to comment.

BUDDY WALKER PLAYS NEW ROLE OF UNDERDOG

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Buddy Walker, undefeated Columbus Negro who holds the Ohio heavyweight boxing crown, today found himself in the unusual role of underdog as he and Johnny Whiters, Pontiac, Mich., battler, tapered off their training for their 10-rounder tomorrow night.

Local betting odds were 6-to-5 on Whiters, despite Walker's undefeated standing in more than 20 ring wars.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

THE HEROES—Hank Greenberg and Rudy York of the Detroit Tigers whose homers enabled their team to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 8, and take first place in the American league; Hank Leiber whose home run with two on base in the seventh inning resulted in a 5 to 3 Chicago Cub victory over the New York Giants; Bucky Walters who hurls up his 13th triumph of the season as the Cincinnati Reds kept the pennant pace, defeating the Phillies, 3 to 2.

THE GOATS—Al Milnar, Cleveland Indian pitcher, who was charged with the loss in Washington's 8 to 4 decision that dropped the Tribe to second place; Jim Lann, Giant pitcher who was tagged by Leiber for the game-deciding homer at Chicago.

CHAPTER XXVIII

She ran off again and in a moment was back with a cut of number one calfskin, soft and pliable, and she held a glass of water. Spreading the leather, she dampened it and went to work.

First, a great poppy flower took form. Under it a stem. Along that a series of gracefully curved leaves, and then another big flower.

"Meanwhile," Monty said "let's begin on the other sheet. First, I should say, is the excellent business investment you already have here. If this Mr. Barringer is so willing to pay your own price in cash, he too must think it good. And I am sure it is better than you think. Since we discovered Walpi's crude bookkeeping system I have made careful checks and studies, and I know you have an excellent gross taken even though the profits are carelessly frittered away by a picturesque Indian manager. It is a situation that you can—and must—change immediately. In fact I have already asked a salesman of business systems and forms to call."

"Oh thank you, Monty!"

"Second, I should say, is health."

"Health?" She looked up at him again.

"Indeed so, Rosemary. Health in this clean open country is simply bound to be better than in the nervous rush of city living. Isn't it?"

"Why, I suppose so. I hadn't thought, honestly."

"You must. You would face it sooner or later. Haven't you lived leisurely out here and still lived well?"

"Why—yes! Yes. I have! Like a long vacation, Monty!"

"Health is second, or mayhap even first," he ruled sagely. "Then——"

"Oh, and friends, Monty! And scenery and doing things different and—oh, gee!"

He smiled in amusement.

"Un hunh, miss! It is plain that you have been educating yourself to the West. Even as I!"

She smiled back, and spoke again. "Well, Bob said——"

"I understand." Abruptly he was very serious. "Of course, we must list that—list him—as first. First in—ah, heart consideration, which of course takes precedence over all."

"Oh. But I meant that he had started selling you and me both on Arizona, and we had finished the job. Don't you see, Monty?"

"Yes, of course. But back to the—ah, bad list, so to speak. There is, well—the fellow Ward Bascom—when he tried to kiss you—that was certainly a harrowing experience. And the episode of nursing a new papoose into the world when——"

"Monty! That papoose was a privilege!"

"Quite so! But it offers contrast to New York, I meant. It wouldn't have happened to you there."

"Now you take the shader and make the flower stand out by pounding lightly, Monty. Like this, see? Then we take this little brusing tool and add some perspective to the flower. And here's a crinkly gadget to make the stem look lifelike. And a dotted thing for making background. Then you can work in—"

For a quarter-hour or so both were engrossed in the art of tooling leather, which is a fascinating hobby for any one. Strangely enough Dr. Montgomery was completely diverted from the serious business at hand. He never realized it, but he and Rosemary were like two school kids who had suddenly been attracted by something outside their serious studies and had gone to it full force. He tried the swivel knife, and showed an initial skill with it. He tried the pounding tools. In a little while he had made a monogram of R T—for Rosemary Taylor—with lots of graceful culicues. Both were delighted.

They came back to earth, figuratively speaking, when Sue McKee and Bob King rode up out front in Bob's Forest Service car.

"Gee, it's almost half-past five, Monty!" Rosemary suddenly observed.

"So it is!"

They went out to greet the others, speaking to four or five customers who were in the store now. Walpi was busily selling things. The four young people talked and laughed a great deal then Bob brought out the portable radio and turned it on again. Presently Bob interrupted the gaiety to address Rosemary direct.

"Listen, kid," said he, "since you are out of the dumps now, how about coming with me to a dance tonight? Over at the big CCC recreation hall. Hunh?"

Rosemary glanced quickly at Sue and Monty—Bob had said nothing about making it a party for all four—and then answered.

"Why thank you, Bob, but Monty took pity on me first. I was in the dumps, as you say. He talked business with me, and then offered to drive me to Flagstaff tonight to a picture show. Thanks again, though."

"Oh. Okay, okay, then." Bob turned up the radio music and dropped the dance topic. But he had ceased to smile. Monty beckoned Rosemary to one side, and half whispered to her.

"No no!" he chided. "Go back and tell Bob you will go to the dance with him! My—ah—date was a matter of—of—well plainly you should go with King, for your own sake as well as his. He is the man you love, you have told me!"

Rosemary's mouth popped open in surprise.

"Oh! Of course, Monty. Honestly I—I just forgot!"

And as she walked back toward Bob, it occurred to Rosemary that it was most extraordinary for any girl to forget she loved a man. She was definitely ashamed of herself.

The Civilian Conservation Corp for this area was encamped on a lower slope of Navajo Mountain about five or six miles from Rosemary's trading post. The guests of honor at tonight's dance were the state Corp commander and his wife, who were on tour of inspection from Phoenix. And because any dance in a wilderness country is a high point socially, "everybody" was due to be there.

Moreover, everybody was. The invitation had been a blanket one. Men, women and children in all walks of life were welcomed, and so when Rosemary and Bob entered the big recreation and dining hall it seemed almost filled. Not many of the men, it appeared, had fancy "Sunday" clothes to wear, for the miners were still miners, the cowboys still cowboys, the lumberjacks still lumberjacks. Clothes were clean, but rough. Even their girls and women were dressed in plain ginghams and simple housedress things; quite a few even had on cotton stockings, and Rosemary noted at least two grown girls who wore no stockings at all. Probably they simply didn't have any sort of stockings to wear! All at once Rosemary felt a defensive sympathy for these folk as a whole, a loyalty and a love for them. She was somehow accepting them as her own, not necessarily her kind exactly, but her people. She set in to be as courteous and cordial as she knew how.

This latter was important. It made her at once the outstanding girl present. To begin with, she was exceptionally pretty in a way that employed all of youth's unspoiled natural charm. Second, she was "the new girl" of the vast mountain area here, was unmarried and so was a heart throb for every man present. Bob King squired her with justifiable pride.

The music hadn't started when she and Bob arrived. Five musicians, though, were set up in a little stage or platform in the middle of the big floor. There were two big guitars, a banjo, a large mouth harp, a fiddle, and a zinc washtub.

It developed that the mouth harp artist (he was no less than that) doubled on the tub. He had a foot arrangement that made the tub into a drum, and when he went "THOMP-a -THOMP-a -THOMP" on it a body just had to dance! Rosemary wished she could show it to the traps man in the Peacock night club back home.

Leader of the band was announced as Mister Holly Singletary from th' Black Virgin Mine dis-trict let 'er sqiurt, Holly. All in one phrase like that.

Holly immeditely let 'er squirt. Holly was a man past 50, maybe past 60. His mustache, wider than his face, was pointed and grayish, and his grin underneath was a happy contagion. He lifted his right foot—not just his toe, but his whole foot—went plop, plop plop, and on the third Plop swung in with his fiddle bow. On the same lop the boys twanged their guitars and banjo, the tub thoomped, and the mouth harp sang. On that plop, too, nearly a hundred couples took their first dance step. Mister Singletary had known precisely how they would respond.

Bob King didn't dance as well as Rosemary had somehow expected. He was a little bit jerky, as if muscle-bound. He was prone to stay too primly erect, and she supposed it was due to his military uniform and manner in the ranger service. But she didn't mind! They got along all right.

She couldn't help noticing that most people looked at her. She wore a frilly blue dress this evening, and even though she had dark eyes and her hair could hardly be called blond, it was infinitely becoming. It clipped eight or ten years off her age and left her in the high-school teens. The only jewelry she wore was a hammered silver bracelet which held a blue turquoise matching her dress, a piece from her own store.

The crowd mixed at the end of the first dance. Bob left her with some acquaintances. The talk was pleasant and easy. When the music started again, though, she instantly saw Bob dancing with a tall, droopy-eyed girl across the room.

Sir Knights in Convention

Among the officers heading the triennial national convention of the Knights Templar in Cleveland are Grand Generalissimo Charles Orr, of St. Paul, Minn., left, and Deputy Grand Master Harry Pollard, of Lowell, Mass. The convention ceremonials were attended by 25,000 Knight members from all parts of the United States.

CAN YOU VOTE? BETTER CHECK

Registrations at Low Ebb, Even Though November Vote Will Be Heavy One.

Although it is expected that Mansfield and Richland county will cast a record vote this fall, registration activity at the county board of elections has dropped to a low ebb, Deputy Election Board Clerk Walter Underwood asid.

Underwood urged Mansfielders to register and transfer now so as to avoid having to stand in line during the last few days before the registration deadline in October, when enthusiasm is high.

He said city residents who plan to move before the November election can register now and transfer later.

Election officials expect registrations to pass the 19,000 mark next fall for a new high in the city as campaign workers get busy.

Non-voters who will be 21 before the November election date, women who have married since they voted last, new residents in the city, and those who have failed to vote at the last two general elections must register to be eligible to vote in November.

2 Weeks at Camp Over, 28 Mansfield Boys Come Home

Twenty-eight Mansfield boys were to return home today from the Y. M. C. A. camp, Camp Nelson Dodd, where they have been spending the past two weeks.

Camp was to be broken following breakfast this morning. The group attended the second camp period which opened July 2. Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary of the "Y", served as one of the instructors.

There are still a few vacancies for the one-week period which opens Sunday, "Y" officials said today. Mansfield's quota for this period has been set at 20. The camp closed today and will re-open again Sunday.

Bellhop Sees Convention as Outing for Democratic Party

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Bellboy Floyd Bean loosened the shoes on his aching feet, rubbed his tired red knuckles and summed up the Democratic national convention — from his point of view.

"From what I've seen," he said, "and I've seen 'em arrive from dawn until dusk, I can't tell if this is a golf tournament or a fishing convention."

An old luggage lugger whose memories go away back to the 1932 convention which nominated President Roosevelt for his first term, Floyd based his opinions on:

1—The number of fishing rods arriving with the delegates.

2—The number of golf bags arriving with the delegates.

3—The fact that nobody's asked him who's going to get the nomination, and the fact that dozens have asked him about "how're they biting?" and "How're the greens around here?"

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago, hasn't actually put a pole or mashie in anybody's hands, but he's issued every delegate and alternate an engraved metal card that invites them free-of-charge to do the following:

Play golf at the city's most exclusive clubs.

See the baseball games at Wrigley field.

Enjoy the symphony under the stars.

Visit the Arlington park race track.

Go to the downtown movies.

Hear Glenn Miller's swing band.

Take a moonlight boat ride on Lake Michigan.

It's a gay scene and everybody's smiling — especially the pictures of President Roosevelt.

Just look around:

Paul McNutt's headquarters has a picture, in five tones, of McNutt 18 feet by 12 feet . . . A picture of President Roosevelt 18 feet by 32. . . .

Even the seats at Chicago stadium, where the convention will be held, are gay—they're red as a fireman's hat . . . Chicago Democrats are flooding the city with a half million red, white and blue buttons adorned by a rooster . . . the buttons (not the roosters) says:

"Just Roosevelt."

Tickets to the convention are being treated like treasure. As each national committeeman was handed his batch of pasteboards he was given as escort—an armed guard—to get him back to his hotel room.

"I am a Grocer"—

"It is my business to give the people of this community the very best in food values, prompt service and courteous treatment. The selection of merchandise that goes on my shelves has a lot to do with my success, so I buy good products that are put up in accordance with well known standards of quality, weight and measure. Buying and selling on the basis of these standards protects my customers and my business.

"I know from experience that good newspaper advertising is the best way to tell people the news of my store. In my opinion, newspaper advertising is not only the most effective way for me to advertise, it is also the safest way. When I spend money in newspaper advertising I make my investment on the basis of verified circulation figures and values that are as well known and important in advertising as the standards of weight and quality that I use in my own business."

THE information which the grocer refers to is found in reports issued by the Audit Bureau of Circulations. This is a national, cooperative association of 2000 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. The work of the Bureau is to furnish advertisers with verified facts about the circulation of its publisher members.

The Bureau has a staff of skilled auditors who pay an annual visit to every publisher member and make a careful audit of the circulation records. Then, for the guidance of buyers of advertising space, the Bureau issues reports based on these audits.

These reports tell how much circulation a paper has, where this circulation goes, how it was obtained and many other facts. When advertising is bought on the basis of such information it becomes an investment in known values.

RELIEF COST IN FIRST HALF OF YEAR INCREASES

Shows 30 Per Cent Gain, While Case Load's Up 8 Per Cent; Long Winter Blamed.

Cost of maintaining indigent families in Mansfield and Richland county, outside Shelby, during the first six months of this year increased nearly 30 per cent over the corresponding period in 1939, Relief Director J. Verne Finney reported today, while the monthly average of the relief cases increased only about 8 per cent.

Total expenditures for providing food, clothing and shelter, during the first half of 1940 was listed at $67,477, an increase of $15,281 over the $52,196 spent during the same period last year.

The figures showed in increase in the relief load with a monthly average of 1,831 persons receiving assistance during the first half of this year as compared with a monthly average of 1,778 during the same period last year.

With exception of January and February, relief costs this year have run more than $4,000 a month above the 1939 expenditures, Finney's report revealed.

Relief costs during the first three months of this year totaled more than $12,000 a month, hitting a peak of $12,821 in March.

During June expenses dropped to $9,118, the lowest for the year, but approximately $3,000 more than during June 1939.

The extended winter, coupled with WPA layoffs during the past several months, was given as the chief reason for the increase by Finney.

Of the total amount spent for relief in the Richland county area, $30,204 was for cases in Mansfield while $37,273 was spent to provide for families throughout other parts of the county, exclusive of Selby.

Administrative and non-administrative encumbrances, which include operation of relief headquarters and purchase of supplies, cost $1,735 and $1,289 was spent for medical services.

Urges Cyclists to Familiarize Themselves With Ordinance Before Buying Licenses.

Besieged by inquiries concerning equipment needed on bicycles to meet the requirements of the city new license law, Police Chief Meade K. Bates today stressed the importance of providing bicycles with the necessary equipment before application for the license is made.

"The licenses have been ordered and it will probably be another two weeks before the police department will be able to issue the permits", he said.

"In the meantime, however, it would be well for every bicycle owner to acquaint himself with the new requirements before application for license is made."

When the licenses arrive, police will check each wheel before issuing the tags to see that it meets rigid requirements set forth in the ordinance.

All wheels will be required to be equipped with a rear wheel brake, a warning device (either bell or horn) and an additional seat when more than one person is to ride the bicycle.

If the bicycle is to be ridden at night it must have a headlight visible at least 200 feet and a rear light visible at least 100 feet.

In place of a rear light, the owner may install a red reflector providing that it is at least three inches in diameter.

Bates also called attention to provisions which make mandatory the reporting to the police department of the purchase of a bicycle by the purchaser.

The law provides a penalty of from $2 to $100 for failure to comply with the regulations.

New oil reserves found in the last five years are equal to the total United States oil production of the first 70 years.

THEATERS

Judy Sings Two Numbers.

Two songs, one as new as tomorrow, and the other a favorite of a generation ago, are sung by Judy Garland in "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante," which is showing at the Ohio theater. "I'm Nobody's Baby," hit of the early twenties, and "Alone" are the numbers. In this film Mickey Rooney as Andy falls in love with a dazzling debutante when he and his family visit in New York.

Tale of Jungle Rivalry.

"Safari" which opens Wednesday at the Madison, is an intriguing story of a beautiful and sophisticated woman, played by Madeleine Carroll, who with her friend, is a guest on the yacht of a wealthy baron bound for West Africa for a hunting expedition. Douglas Fairbanks, jr., furnishes the rivalry for an exciting story. The co-feature is "A Fugitive From Justice" with Roger Pryor, Eddie Foy, jr., and several others.

Hillbilly Programs Popular.

Hillbilly musicals were put on the motion picture map by the Weaver Brothers and Elviry in 1937 and they have been popular ever since. These famous comedians will be seen at the Park today and Wednesday in "Grand Ole Opry" which is the latest of their productions. A second feature is "Gaucho Serenade" starring Gene Autry and Smiley Burnette.

Fulton and His First Ship.

Richard Greene is seen as Robert Fulton, inventor of the first successful "ship without sails" in the film "Little Old New York" which is showing beginning Wednesday at the Ritz. He shares top billing with Alice Faye, Fred MacMurray and Brenda Joyce. This is in the period when cows roamed Fifth avenue and a barmaid and a lady could vie for the love of a man like Fulton. The co-feature is "And One Was Beautiful" with Robert Cummings, Laraine Day, Jean Muir and Billie Burke.

STEELS, MOTORS AND AIRCRAFTS PUT ON RALLY

Many Issues, However, Continue to Drift In Narrow Lane In Today's Market.

(By Associated Press)

—NEW YORK—Steels, aircrafts and motors put on a little rally of their own in today's market, but many issues continued to drift in narrow territory.

A more hopeful view of the home business outlook, combined with the belief of some the market had been "sold out" was credited partly by brokers for the better action.

The Democratic convention still kept many potential buyers on the waiting list.

Bonds and commodities were mixed throughout.

Among supported stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Standard Oil of N. J., Anaconda, Martin Parry and Woolworth.

Steels were bolstered by predictions of expanding production to around the capacity limit before long.

Financial quarters saw a faint recovery in the condition statement of reporting federal reserve member banks in 101 cities for the week ended July 10, disclosing a rise in commercial industrial and agricultural loans of $9,000,000.

Estimates showed merchandise distribution throughout the country so far this month some 10 per cent above the comparable 1939 period.

WESTINGHOUSE MAPS $560,000 EXPANSION PLAN

Warehouse Project to Be Last Step In $1,500,000 Program To Boost Production.

household refrigerators will be increased by 33 per cent.

The new warehouse will be located adjacent to the present warehouse and office building on East Fourth street.

The structure will be of normal four-story height, but there will be only two floors, 24 feet high, to facilitate easier storage, Kohnstamm said.

The building will extend east of Fourth street approximately 320 feet and will be 200 feet deep. The type of construction has not yet been decided upon, although construction is expected to get under way within the next few weeks. It is scheduled to be completed soon after Jan. 1.

Second floor of the building will extend over about one half of the first floor, leaving space for future expansion, if desired, of an additional 36,000 square feet, Kohnstamm pointed out.

More than 2,000 feet of conveyors will be installed in the structure, bringing the total length of conveyor lines in the Mansfield plant to nearly 12 miles, he added.

The new building has been designed by the architectural firm of Albert Kahn, Inc., Detroit, which also drafted plans for the metal stamping buildings now under construction.

Kohnstamm said truck dock facilities will be enlarged by addition of space for 14 motor units, upon completion of the new warehouse.

The company recently acquired the land for the new warehouse site through purchase of 11 properties between East Fourth and East Third streets, at a cost of $64,750.

He added that the reason for the expansion of the Mansfield plant is to step up production and warehousing facilities to meet increasing business demands anticipated by company officials.

"To date, this year, we have had a steady increase in business," he stated. "In the first six months of 1940, our refrigerator output exceeded the figure of the first six months of 1939 by 50 per cent."

"This increase, plus the continued favorable business prospects for the balance of 1940 and 1941, has prompted us to undertake the expansion program. We feel that expansion of our facilities will place us in even more favorable position than in the past to provide the luxury of electrical home equipment at a more reasonable cost to more American homes."

PLEADS GUILTY

Pleading guilty to a charge of permitting an unlicensed minor to drive his automobile when arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon, James Robinson, 19, R. D. 3, Mansfield, was fined $5 and costs.

State highway patrolmen who arrested him Sunday on U. S. route 30 east of Mansfield testified that a 17-year-old girl was driving the car. They said she had no operator's permit.

DEM DELEGATES STILL IN DOUBT

Farley's 'Farewell' Speech Still Leaves Decision Uncertain.

his prepared speech, and began reading it.

The Oklahoma office holder was whispering to the Oklahoma lawyer, "We'll sure miss Jim!" The delegate from Ohio said to his brethren: "It's newspaper talk. He isn't quitting."

Farley was reaching his peroration. His voice was solemn, perhaps sad—one couldn't tell if the amplifiers were coloring it.

"And now . . . it becomes my duty to relinquish the gavel . . . mine has been a happy service . . . I know that your new organization will . . . this great gathering will give our successors. . . ."

The Oklahoma office holder whispered to the Oklahoma lawyer: "There, didn't I tell you? He just won't have anything to do with the third term." The Ohioan said: "Aw, that's just the usual stuff. Friday we'll re-elect him chairman; then watch us win with Roosevelt!"

FACES GRAND LARCENY COUNT

Defendant Waits Hearing In Alleged Theft of Funds.

Clinton Gipe, 48, of near Rome, was in county jail today under $1,500 bond on a charge of grand larceny. The affidavit against him was signed by Mrs. Jessie Elrod, Park avenue east.

Mrs. Elrod said she had lost a pocketbook containing $41.20 at a home near Rome where Gipe was visiting. Gipe's mother is said to have told Mrs. Elrod her son found the pocketbook but another woman had claimed it, according to officers.

Attorney C. F. Creedman represented Gipe in municipal court this morning and asked for a continuance. Hearing was set for July 23.

FDR'S SILENCE IRKS DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

They're Uncertain About How To Interpret, How to Put Him In Nomination.

Nutt of Indiana, Secretary Wallace, and Senator Byrnes of South Carolina shared the most prominent consideration.

Other possibilities included Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war; Speaker Bankhead, and Senators Barkley of Kentucky, Brown of Michigan, Lucas of Illinois and Herring of Iowa.

From E. B. Germany, chairman of the Garner for president movement, came word that he did not believe the vice president would be interested in a third term for himself.

Germany said that as a gesture of respect the Texas delegation would join in the parade for Mr. Roosevelt when that demonstration is given, but that it would vote for Garner.

Today's program sent the convention through the last whirl of formalities before the real action starts. Tomorrow the platform probably will be adopted, and Thursday will be nominating day.

This morning's session was given to routine business, plus a speech from Mrs. Thomas McAllister, director of the woman's division of the national committee. Tonight, Speaker Bankhead leaves his post as temporary chairman and turns over the gavel to Senator Barkley, who will speak.

Meanwhile, the platform committee began working out the policy statement which will guide the party through the campaign.

As in the recent Republican convention at Philadelphia, the knottiest problem was reconciling divergent views over foreign policy.

The committee heard demands that the United States go so far as to convoy supplies to Great Britain. Senators Wheeler of Montana and McCarran of Nevada declared that to do so would be an act of war. They have said they would fight any proposal that strong, on the floor of the convention if necessary.

On the other hand, Senator Pepper of Florida was leading a demand for a plank advocating all possible aid short of war.

In his keynote address, Speaker Bankhead said the major objectives "of both parties must be unity and solidarity of purpose in preserving inviolate the structure of our government and the perpetual freedom of its people."

"We recognize that ours is a government by political parties and that as instrumentalities of government they are entitled to the largest measure of freedom in carrying legitimately disputed issues to the people," he said.

Of the Republican platform, he declared:

"The frank committee and their platform committee were in labor a long, long time and they finally brought forth a weasel."

He said that "not only is this administration opposed absolutely to a participation in any European war" but that it has "done everything possible within the bounds of reason" to preserve peace abroad and "keep us out of involvement in a foreign war."

"We do not propose," he added, "to appease those aggressors whose doctrines wage war upon every principle of liberty for a free people that our declaration of independence and our federal constitution preserved."

On this point, Farley said in his address that the administration "has given its solemn pledge that no American boy will be sent to die on the battlefields of Europe and this compact will be kept."

"There may be difference of opinion among Democrats on other issues but on this determination there is absolute unity," he added.

CHICAGO —(INS)— The recommendation of the national committee that women be given equal representation with men on the important platform committee was accepted today by the Democratic National convention rules committee.

Championed by Gov. Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, the rule change, if ratified by the convention as anticipated, will have the effect of doubling the present platform committee membership, now consisting entirely of men.

Each state and territory would be permitted to name a man and a woman delegate to the rules committee. To preserve the present ration of representation states or territories with no women delegates, as in the case of Alaska at this convention, would elect two men to represent them.

The committee decided until tomorrow action on the proposal to reward with additional delegate representation states returning Democratic majorities in presidential elections.

ELECTED RULER

Joseph G. Buch of Trenton, N. J., today was elected grand exalted ruler of the National Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at the order's 76th grand lodge meeting now in session in Houston, Texas.

Buch was unanimously selected following his nomination by former Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey.

Here's Action From The 'Battle of West Fourth Street'

Although it dwindled from a four-man match to a two-man affair, that horseshoe pitching contest staged in the middle of torn-up West Fourth street last night had its moments. At right, Curt Burkhart lets a shoe fly toward the peg. Center, Pete Martin, left, and Burkhart pick 'em after a close point has been decided. At right, Martin lines up a toss. Martin won both matches, as some 200 spectators braved the rain to watch.

PETE STICKS TO HIS GUNS

Opponents Duck But Genial Baker Reports And Wins In Substitute Match.

Pete, just to show that he was made of sterner stuff than the absent Joe Michael, Julius Webber and Vern Hauserman—dusted the younger man off in short order, taking the first match 21 to 12 and the second 21 to 9.

"I guess they're getting too old for a little rain," Martin jeered, brushing a bucketful of dew off each shoulder. "And they used to be such game fellows—in their youth."

"I don't know what the older generation is coming to," he muttered. "There was a day when my pals wouldn't have let me down." Charley Walter, who stood beside Pete throughout the ordeal and refereed the substitute match, Walter nodded in quiet agreement and watched the lone warrior woefully spear another ringer.

Walter had tried from 9 until 9:30 to get the other three members of the foursome on the telephone but to no avail. Michael reported himself on the "sick list" while Webber and Hauserman reported not at all.

Martin, when he realized that the others weren't going to show up, tried to lure Ed Burghard into the affray but Burghard took one look at the rain and disappeared back into the Hofbrau, which he operates.

That didn't help Pete's state of mind much either. Burghard had engineered the match.

RENEWS PACT WITH COMPANY

School Board Provides For Transportation of Children.

The DeLuxe Cab company's contract for hauling pupils to the Mansfield schools for handicapped children was renewed for two years last night by the board of education.

Calling for the same rate of pay as last year, the new contract will give the DeLuxe company 15 cents per pupil per day for a one-way trip in the city and 30 cents for a round trip. An additional 10 cents per mile will be paid on trips outside the city limits.

The contract involves approximately $3,000 a year. The company will haul from 60 to 70 pupils to and from the city's special schools during the regular school term.

SHOWER KEEPS MERCURY DOWN

Weather to Stay Fair and Cooler, Shower Tomorrow.

Last night's thunder shower sent the mercury into a skid and kept the temperature "pleasantly cool" today.

From yesterday's high of 83, the mercury dropped to 58 during the night and at noon today was hovering around the 73 mark. There was a sprinkle of an inch of rainfall last evening and some spectacular flashes of lightning. No damage was reported today, however.

Fair and cooler tonight is forecast, with increasing cloudiness and probably showers tomorrow.

For the past two years, on account of the blockade that the Japanese navy has imposed upon the east coast of China, the only source of supply for military goods for China has been through Burma road.

Therefore, according to far eastern experts in Washington, if this road is closed it will mean that the government of Chiang Kai-Shek will not be able in the future to receive guns and munitions necessary for the continued opposition of Chinese armies to the Japanese.

Eight From Boys' Choir Honored at Put-In-Bay- Camp

Special honors went to eight boys from the boys' choir of Grace Episcopal church, who last weekend returned from a week's stay at Camp Wa-Li-Ro, choir camp at Put-In-Bay.

A scholarship for tuition and instruction for one week at camp went to Paul Pfahler, selected to sing in a model choir which performed for the annual choir masters' conference held in conjunction with the camp from July 1 to 5.

Bronze medals for excellence in work went to John Taylor, Robert Meyers and George Porterfield, and honors for cleanliness in camp quarters went to Darrell Nichols, Richard Mumford and David and Richard Talbot.

The group attended camp from Jul 7 to 14. David Talbot is still at camp. The camp is composed of leading boys from Episcopal choirs from throughout Ohio, where they are given instructions by leading choir masters. The staff this year is headed by Rev. Dom Anselm Hughes of Nashdom Abbey, England.

Others who attended the camp are Robert Schrack, Paul Kimes, Donald Richardson and Quentin Talbot. They were accompanied by Mrs. Dean Eckert, choirmistress, and Mrs. A. E. Hancock, choir mother.

trance, by fellow workers and company officials.

Coroner Patrick McDermott said the bodies were only slightly burned. He said the cause of death probably was gas, as air circulation in the blasted area was stopped when the battens, cross pieces used as supports between the entries, were blown out.

The explosion occurred approximately 12,000 feet back from the mouth of the slope entrance. About 225 miners were working in the entire "E" seam at the time but only 83 were believed in the three headings affected.

Some of the 21 men who escaped were slightly burned by the hot air that rolled through the mine. Thirteen of them came out of the 18th heading and eight escaped from the 16th heading. The majority of those killed were trapped in the 17th heading.

"I saw a flash and I heard a loud noise and rumbling," Edward Ben, one of the survivors, said. "Then things started to fall all around and I yelled 'explosion.'

"It was hot and difficult to breathe and we got down and stopped for a while. The air was better down low. We crawled on our hands and knees and finally made our way to the 'dip' where we were rescued."

The Sonman mine, one of the largest in Cambria county, rich bituminous field, employs 1,200 miners, 400 to a shift. The mine is the livelihood of the town.

Davey, making a bid for a third term against Republican Gov. John W. Bricker, moved to make Sawyer's renomination for committeeman unanimous, declaring he wanted to do "everything in my power" to promote harmony.

The former governor asserted he had no part in the "oust Sawyer" movement led by Poulson, who supported Walter F. Heer, Franklin county chairman, for the committee post. The campaign in Heer's behalf collapsed for lack of support, but Poulson failed to join in the harmony chorus.

ROME SENDS UP TRIAL BALLOON ON PEACE PLAN

Three-Ply Proposal Reported Drawn; Japan Move Brings U. S. Fleet Shift.

mighty fleet and that two-thirds of the force might be lost, leaving 200,000 men to risk destruction by the British defenders.

The Italian command, the paper also said, were reported to be opposed to the plan.

The Nazi-Fascist peace move, as described by diplomatic quarters in Rome, would be sounded by Adolf Hitler in a three-point plan as follows:

1. Settlement of European affairs, presumably with Germany and Italy to dominate the continent—and Britain to keep "hands off."

2. Return of British-held colonies owned by Germany before the World war.

3. Economic rehabilitation of Europe.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a broadcast Sunday night, scornfully rejected in advance any Axis suggestion of a peace parley.

In Berlin, informed sources said a clue to the situation might be found in a statement made yesterday by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, who asserted the axis powers were preparing a "surrender or be destroyed" ultimatum against Britain.

Nazis said Germany is ready to strike when Hitler gives the word and that a titanic blow was an "inevitable necessity" because Churchill insisted on fighting to a finish.

Informed German quarters held that British stubbornness would require the latter alternative and said bases for attack had been prepared "with German thoroughness" from Norway to the French Atlantic coast.

Dienst Aus Deutschland, German commentary, said air raids thus far against England had not been on a large scale and were intended only to tighten Germany's attempted "starvation blockade" and to weaken resistance by destroying airdromes, arms plants and docks.

The daily German raids on Britain tapered off sharply. Planes were sighted over northeast England but no bombs were dropped and a lone raider was believed shot down off the southeast coast.

The British for their part appeared to be striking at Germany.

A dozen or more radio stations in Germany and German-held territory fell silent last night and early today, indicating that British planes were in the neighborhood, although no announcements were made at the time.

The British air ministry reported it had inflicted punishment on 22 German airports and other points in the previous 48 hours. The Germans called the raids "aimless" and scoffed at damage done.

Britain was believed to have laid new mine fields in waters around Italian territory in the Mediterranean. The admiralty warned vessels that if they should venture within 30 miles of Italian territory in the Mediterranean they would do so "at their own risk and peril." The move was stated to have been in retaliation for similar action taken by Italy against England.

Japan opened war operations against the Hankchow Bay area of China, which includes the important treaty port of Ningpo. Warships, marines an dairecraft were used, the Japanese navy announced.

Argentine government raids against suspected "fifth columnists" resulted in the arrest of 25 German residents in the northern territory of Formosa, reliable reports said. Of these 17 were released and eight held for further investigation.

Belated reports of the big Italian-British naval battle in the Mediterranean on July 9 came from both sides today, giving new details.

A communique by the commander-in-chief of the British fleet said at least 20 Italian bombing planes were shot down in the action.

The Italian high command reported three direct bomb hits on the 42,100-ton British battle cruiser Hood, world's largest warship, and one hit on the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal. Previous unofficial Italian claims to this effect have been officially denied by the British admiralty.

The Italian communique also reported huge fires set at Hafia, British oil port in Palestine, through direct hits by Italian bombers on oil refineries and depots yesterday.

Dispatches from Jerusalem said one Arab was killed and another seriously wounded in the attack by 100 Italian bombers on Hafia—the first air raid in the holy land since the war began.

The British admiralty acknowledged that the Nazi-proclaimed "starvation blockade" submarine campaign against the British Isles caused the loss of 114,137 tons of Allied and neutral merchant ships during the week-end of July 7.

New Berlin Parley Reported Arranged.

ROME — (U.P.) — Reliable quarters said today that Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, would go to Berlin for important conferences in which Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov might participate.

It was reported that in addition to conferring with Adolf Hitler Ciano might engage in important three way conversations with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Molotov.

Date of Ciano's departure will be announced tonight, it was predicted. Rumors that Ciano's visit to Berlin might be connected with possible peace offers were discounted.

Ciano already has visited Germany once this month. He conferred with Hitler and Ribbentrop and the Hungarian premier and foreign minister at Munich.

Hopkins Predicts FDR Nomination on First Ballot

SAYS FARLEY, GARNER WILL 'GET TOKENS'

President's Advisor Also Sees Willkie Getting Recognition As Voting Starts.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO — Roosevelt on the first ballot. Sixty five or seventy votes for James A. Farley. About the same number for Vice President John N. Garner of Texas. And some votes for Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican standard bearer.

This is the opinion today of Harry L. Hopkins, President Roosevelt's No. 1 adviser and "eyes" at the Democratic national convention, as expressed in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

Hopkins was encountered by this writer on the roof of the fashionable Tavern club in Michigan boulevard where he had dined after the first session of the convention. Very little has been seen publicly of Hopkins since he came from the White House to Chicago to look after Mr. Roosevelt's interests. For the most part the engaging but politically inexperienced Hopkins has confined his operations to receiving New Dealers and delegates at his suite in 308-310 of the Blackstone hotel, directly across the street from where the veteran political organizer and twice successful manager of Roosevelt's presidential campaigns, "Jim" Farley, has his "open house" headquarters.

The conversation with Hopkins went as follows:

"Who do you think, Mr. Hopkins, will be nominated at this convention?"

It's going to be a first ballot nomination. . . . You know who's going to be nominated." (He made it obvious he meant Roosevelt.)

"Well, how about Farley?"

"He'll get 65 or 70 votes on the first ballot."

(Farley, while reiterating that his name will surely go before the convention, has refused in his daily press conferences to indicate how many votes he thinks he will receive on the first ballot.)

"Who else?" Hopkins was asked.

"Garner will get about the same number as Farley," he replied.

"Yes, go on."

"There may be some Willkie votes."

(It has been persistently reported that there is a movement on foot to place Willkie's name in nomination.)

Hopkins made no mention of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, another presidential possibility.

Hopkins' attention was called to the fact that the reaction of the delegates was apathetic when Roosevelt's name was clarioned in convention hall by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago in his address of welcome. There was mild handclapping but nothing of the nature of a demonstration. A delegate in the New York section seized a standard and started marching through the aisles. But he marched alone and soon returned to his seat.

"The delegates are rather bored," was Hopkins' comment.

GIVES WARNING

Official Hits Liquor Dealers Who Boost Price Too Much.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Harry F. Busey, federal collector of internal revenue at Columbus, warned retail dealers today that the law provides heavy penalties for issuance of false statements concerning the amount of tax levied on beer and cigarets.

Busey's office has received complaints that some dealers have advertised that increased prices were due to new federal defense taxes although the price advances have been more than the amount of the new tax.

DECLARES AXIS POWERS DREAD ISLAND ASSAULT

Writer Sees British Growing Stronger as Chaos, Famine Threaten Europe.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

Today's news from Rome and Berlin rather forces the impression that the Nazis would be just as happy if they didn't have on their hands the job of making good their threat to invade England and annihilate that island kingdom.

With a month passed since France succumbed, the conquering Germans are still withholding the blow of their upraised fist. Meanwhile the continent is drifting towards chaos and famine, while Britain daily grows stronger militarily and displays real power both on offense and defense.

Hitler's hatred of England and his desire to break that country wide open is well known.

The Nazi press has signaled that Germany is ready for the attack. That likely is so, but I can see several reasons why Herr Hitler might prefer to get a quick settlement and wind up the war. The way things stand he is far from sure that a direct assault on England will result in speedy termination of the conflict. It might have done had he struck some time ago, but the situation has altered.

I think British Premier Churchill in his historic speech Sunday night put his finger on one reason why the axis might be glad to offer England a compromise to save further fighting. Speaking of the projected invasion, he remarked:

"All I can say is that any plan which Hitler made two months ago must have had to be entirely recast in order to meet our new position."

Churchill explained that his country now has a million and a half troops under arms, "and every week of June and July has seen their organization, their defense and their striking power advance by leaps and bounds." and "behind the regular army we have more than a million of the local defense volunteers."

The British airforce also has been growing in power, as has been clearly indicated by both its defensive and offensive operations.

Another reason for haste is that the danger of trouble in the Balkans hasn't been eliminated, since Russia's intentions still remain cloudy.

There is a third and perhaps even stronger reason which affects both Germany and Italy. The British navy with its thousand warships still controls the seas and maintains its great blockade.

BYRNES, HOPKINS REMAIN SHY AS McNUTT DINES ON HOT DOG

CHICAGO — (AP) — Senator Byrnes of South Carolina and Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, the two men at the Democratic convention with whom President Roosevelt presumably is keeping in touch, are almost as elusive as the answer to the question, "Will the chief executive accept?"

They talk to scores of delegates every day, but don't commit themselves. Barnes keeps on the move most of the time, while Hopkins sticks closer to his hotel suite.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, is finding that the convention leaves enough time to change shirts, but not enough to eat.

So he changes shirts between sessions but eats dinners in his box at the Chicago stadium. Menu: One hot dog and a paper cup of lemonade.

P. S.—Mrs. McNutt doesn't approve.

Rep. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey commented on suggestions that she be placed in nomination for vice president:

"I don't think it quite time yet for a woman to cast her hat into the vice presidential ring. That time will come though—but not perhaps for 10 to 20 years."

Sen. Bennet Champ Clark of Missouri says he is going to cast his half vote for Harry H. Woodring for vice president. He and Woodring, who recently resigned as secretary of war, want a "non-intervention" plank on the European war.

Courtesy For Cops

NEXT time you get mad at a traffic cop who bawls you out for endangering your own life or your neighbor's, who maybe even gives you a traffic ticket, think a minute before you lose your temper completely. The cop is engaged in saving your life at that corner so you can go on driving when and where you please. He doesn't care a whoop where you go when you're out of his traffic jam, nor what you do or say after you get home.

If you were a peace-loving, liberty-cherishing Frenchman, now, the Gestapo would be after you. They'd know where you went and what you did and what you heard on the radio. And if you so much as said your Heil Hitler with another "i" where the "i" ought to be, you or your daughter or your aged grandmother would be in a concentration camp before you could say Jack Robinson.

The American traffic cop is no slimy spy. He's a friendly, square, two-fisted individual, who does a thousand good deeds a day. Undoubtedly a little more courtesy on his part would not hurt the American scene. But how about the driver meeting him half-way? Suppose instead of being argumentative and sullen a driver in the wrong would say, "I'm sorry, Mr. Officer. I did make a mistake that time. I'll try to watch my step better from now on." The officer could bear it, for a change. And the driver might go off with his soul in a gentle glow.

Starting The Right Way

MAYOR WILLIAM J. LOCKE'S announcement that he plans to take steps to put a portion of the citizens' committee recommendations on traffic into effect is a welcome start toward remedying a near-intolerable situation.

There has been an ordinance, never enforced, setting up a by-pass for Route 42 truck traffic, so that it could avoid Central park.

The committee recommended that not only trucks, but all through traffic be by-passed over First street and Hedges street.

It may take an amendment to the ordinance to by-pass all traffic, and if it does, the amendment should be made. Meanwhile, why not start by-passing truck traffic?

Certainly, drivers of heavy vehicles don't relish mixing up with Central park traffic.

And it is equally as certain that passenger car drivers would be glad to see the trucks use an alternate route.

That's only one part, and a small one, of the recommendations.

But it's a start.

What You Value

THE explanation of the defeat of the Belgian army, as outlined by the Belgian embassy in Washington provides more food for thought along the lines of national defense.

Denying that betrayals and treason had any part in the downfall of Belgium, the embassy statement put the case bluntly when it says that a superior foe, better equipped, conquered.

It is natural for the embassy to deny that "fifth columnists" had anything to do with Belgium's defeat.

But it is also natural for a reader's thoughts to turn back from 1940 to 1914.

In 1914, too, the Germans had a superior army, and it was better equipped than the Belgians were. Yet the Belgian line, reinforced by the British, held.

In 1914 the Germans were superior in equipment to the French, yet the French held.

Nor can it be alleged that the attack on Belgium came without warning, which might have been said more truthfully in 1914.

In men, the Germans had an insurmountable advantage. But they needn't have had such an advantage in equipment.

Belgium, like France, paid more attention to other things than to its defenses. Now it has neither defenses nor the things it thought it preferred.

What you value, you must be willing to defend.

And that applies in this country as well as abroad.

Bike Mechanics

A BICYCLE course, sponsored by a newspaper, was started lately in a midwestern city. If it proves to be educationally valuable the idea will spread.

The purpose of the course is to promote safety by teaching young bike owners how to keep their own wheels in good condition. Two bicycles, a mechanic's manual, samples of three popular coaster brakes, and the necessary tools are the equipment provided. Pupils are given the opportunity to take the practice bicycles apart and put them together again.

The first kids signing up found the assignment a little beyond them, but they had expert supervision and soon began to master the problems confronting them.

When the schools closed the mechanics course was transferred to various summer recreation centers, where it will not only instruct the boys but will be fun, and should keep a few kids out of mischief.

Most And Quickest

PERFECTION is a goal that is not always practical. Especially in war preparations. And a writer to the editor" points out that Adolf Hitler, who is a pretty keen guy, has profited largely by foregoing perfection.

When Hitler started building war planes, for example, he didn't make any of those nifty Rolls-Royce motors on which Britain prides itself, and which America is pledged to copy. He knew that the life of a fighting plane was likely to be short, at best, and it was safer to count on a lot of motors lasting a short time than a few motors lasting a long time. So instead of, say 1,000 Rolls-Royces at $15,000 apiece, he made 15,000 less durable and perfect motors for about $1,000 apiece. That gave him, quickly and inexpensively, great air fighting power, and enables him right along to make rapid replacements.

The British, going on the opposite plan, have a wonderful air motors but too few of them. Our American plan might be somewhere between the two extremes.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Looking back on a lackluster Broadway season, now empty as a sheet strung on a back yard line, one name comes especially to mind. The owner of this name is a somewhat windy prophet in the sense that Dizzy Dean, before he went gloomily back to Tulsa, was windy with his promises of what he would do in the future.

What made Dean such a curiously compelling figure was that most of his boasts stood up. William Saroyan is a good deal like that.

Saroyan is an American-born Armenian. He is only 32 now, yet he has written eight books of short stories and three plays, one of which was awarded this year's Pulitzer prize for the drama. This play was "The Time of Your Life." Personally I didn't care much for it. But when the award was made and Saroyan was asked to comment on it, he said, "Probably it is a great play."

* * *

THOSE who know Saroyan are not offended by his supreme self-assurance. His is an ingratiating sort of personality that makes you want to like him. He has a long head in the sense that his chin is a long way from the top of his forehead. He has a lot of hair on that head which is dark. His chin is strong and affirmative. He likes to write about the people who haunt waterfront bars in his native San Francisco. He also likes to loiter around the Broadway shops and talk with his cronies of the theater and press.

There is a waiter in a 52nd street bar who always waits on Saroyan when he has dinner in that particular inn. This waiter has been dubbed after the name of one of New York's better known columnists because he always seems supplied with so much lively gossip. I happened to walk in there one night just as Saroyan and George Jean Nathan, the critic, were leaving.

I said, "That was Saroyan, wasn't it? What was he saying?"

The waiter laughed and said, "He was quoting Ernest Hemingway." It was a remark Mr. Hemingway once made about Mr. Saroyan. It was, "Merely being an Armenian, Bill, isn't enough to insure literary greatness." Probably Saroyan and Hemingway don't think so much of each other. I wouldn't know.

* * *

BUT I can tell you that Saroyan thinks a great deal of Saroyan. He should. So should Broadway, and America for that matter. I like him as a character more than as a playwright. He makes good talk. He never merely comes onto a scene. He arrives with a ringing Saroyan hurrah. He is impetuous, loud, and altogether sincere. He thinks his plays and his short stories are great. The people in them almost without exception are from the half-world of the underprivileged. They labor at rude chores, and they are liars and boasters But, down deep inside, each is fundamentally a philosopher and each has an abiding faith in the goodness of human nature.

This, I am positive, is Mr. Saroyan's own point of view. In sum, he is a sort of adult Tom Sawyer whose Mississippi is the broad American theater and whose Aunt Polly is an audience which, however chastised and teased, always forgives him in the end.

Quick Peace Means Capital Crash

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

PEACE in Europe would cause one of the worst crashes in Washington in the capital's history.

Defense preparation has resulted in the creation of a lot of new government jobs and in the promise of many more. The city simply is crammed with applicants for these berths. Office seekers evidently regard this as the greatest pork-barrel opportunity in a generation—in all time, in fact. It's as bad as one of the national conventions. Hotels haven't room for out-of-town visitors, after places on the national payroll. Senators', representatives' and executives' ante-rooms are jammed with them. And not a few break into inner sanctums, despite all efforts to let them in, if at all, only gradually.

Conscription! If the Washington situation's any criterion of the public's willingness to serve its country, there won't be much occasion for compulsory methods to fill the roster.

However, this is a little different from what the pro-draft advocates are urging. The present contingent want GOOD jobs—white-collar jobs, anyway. Their ambition's to sit at desks and help to direct big policies; not to be ordinary doughboys—or mere industrial conscripts, either.

Profiteers?—In Their Own Way.

Nor are all these job hunters simply small-caliber folk, who, maybe, ought to have some allowances made for 'em, as not amounting to much, anyway.

A goodly percentage are politicians, of a good bit of standing.

They're not asking for comparatively trifling positions at two or two and a half thousands per annum. Their bids are for ten or 15 or more thousands apiece annually. There aren't so many of these available yet, but the seekers are hopeful of more shortly, if the war hangs on.

Moreover, they figure that such jobs, once legislated into existence, will last forever, and that the aspirant who lands one now will hold it as long as his life lasts.

There are congressional "isolationists" who argue that these chaps will be, if they can get away with it, more truly "war profiteers" than those that they so loudly accuse of profiteering designs—and past practices.

Peace Not So Welcome.

To these birds peace suggestions aren't so welcome.

They don't admit the contrary. Nevertheless, they're fluttered when they read news dispatches to the effect that Britain may be on the verge of coming to terms with Hitler and Mussolini — middling unfavorable terms to John Bull, to be sure, but still a peace agreement.

Peace, indeed, would be all right from the standpoint of our national defensive job-seekers—provided it doesn't crimp our defense program, which they're so anxious to get jobs under.

A Patched-Up Peace.

I don't say that a patched-up peace now mightn't leave it as necessary as ever for the United States to proceed with its big defense schedule—plus jobs a-plenty for politicians.

Such an idea gives 'em the jitters.

The issue may have a deal to do with the November election.

Maybe there won't be any patched-up peace. Maybe there will be. There's talk of it. If there is or there isn't (supposing one or the other happens between now and November), there's no knowing how the parties will straddle on it, one way or the other.

Is Democracy Worth Saving?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Is Democracy worth saving?

"You've been taking it for granted that it is. But have you ever looked at our set-up as the rest of the world looks at it? Have you ever given serious thought to our current expression of Democracy, and the part you play in it? Or don't! Yes, I'm asking you. But don't all yell at once. Get this straight before you start reporting me to the Dies committee.

PERSONALLY, I BELIEVE THAT DEMOCRACY IS THE FINEST AND FAIREST PLAN FOR HUMAN RELATIONSHIP EVER CONCEIVED . . . AND IS WORTH EVERYTHING WE CAN SACRIFICE FOR IT IN LOYALTY, ENERGY, COLD CASH—OR LIFE ITSELF.

ALSO I HEARTILY DESPISE THE TACTICS OF THE TOTALITARIAN STATES AND CONSIDER THEM INEXPRESSIBLY INFERIOR TO THE PROGRAM AND PRINCIPLES OF OUR FATHERS

But how about Democracy as we have been expressing it for the last few years . . . is THAT worth saving? And how fit are we to be saviors?

Indignant pause! Outraged glare! All right, go ahead and be mad if you want to. But believe me, partner, these questions take first place in any preparedness program—and God help us if we refuse to face them and profit accordingly. So cut out the patriotic chest-pounding . . . stop quoting the Constitution . . . forget the hip-hurrah shivers you feel when you hear "God Bless America!" and get down to brass tacks. Take a good, long, look-see at yourself and your neighbors and then ask yourself this, if you dare!

"I claim to believe in Democracy, but how much do I actually practice it? Do I even know what Democracy really means? Have I the breadth of vision it demands . . . the fighting faith . . . the willingness to endure discipline and take punishment? As I paying my personal quota for the freedom, security and opportunity I enjoy?

"Or am I merely cashing in on my grandfather's record . . . chiseling on a program to which I have given neither service nor sacrifice?

"I also claim to hate the Nazis, Fascists and Communists. But am I as sincere in my loyalty to my government, as they are to theirs? Have I given as much of myself as they have done? Am I as fit, personally, to defend my principles as they are—quite apart from uniforms and ammunition?"

Tough questions? Yes. But America is going to stand or fall on our answer to those questions. For the thing that finally decides any great conflict is not wealth nor "front" nor munitions but the temper of the men who fight it—and the vigor of their faith in their cause.

You can hardly approve of Germany's viewpoint or recent record. But you must admit, even admire, German fire and fervor, discipline and devotion. Like it or not, the Nazis have what it takes to save a nation.

HAVE WE? I WONDER! We've lived so soft, so smug and snooty. What do most of us know of service, sacrifice or discipline for anything save our personal desires? How far do we look beyond those desires? How much do we really care except to save our coddled hides?

IS DEMOCRACY AS WE'VE BEEN LIVING IT, WORTH SAVING?

History is waiting to be shown!

This Is Ohio

Ohio's tourist traffic is expected to break records this year. To the usual number of inter-state tourists and Ohioans vacationing in their own state, will be added those who will be kept near home by international conditions. For them this will be "travel America" year.

Recently released figures of the United States Travel Bureau estimate the retail expenditures of recreational travelers in the Buckeye State for 1939 at $366,452,000. This represents an increase of 49 per cent in the past five years during which a total of $1,578,000,000 was spent in Ohio by visitors.

Pointed Paragraphs

The man who knows nothing and wants to find out everything is almost as big a bore as the man who thinks he knows everything and insists upon telling it.

The man who waits to make sure that he is right before going ahead often finds himself distanced by a less conservative individual who was willing to take chances.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

CHICAGO—The question of a running-mate has given the inner Democratic leaders almost as many headaches as the long wrestle over the third term.

When the president finally gave them the nod, the boys let out deep sighs of relief, confident that the worst was over. They were sure the vice presidential election would be easy.

They were mistaken. When the private pow-wowing began the leaders discovered themselves to be widely apart. Roosevelt's personal choice was young, tousle-haired Justice Bill Douglas. But Jim Farley and the conservatives wanted either Cordell Hull or Senator Jimmy Byrnes.

Roosevelt did not oppose Hull or Byrnes. Also, significantly, he made no attempt to lay down the law on whom he wanted. As put up to the leaders, the choice boiled down to these basic alternatives:

(1) Whether the selection should be decided primarily on vote-getting ability in this admittedly tough campaign; or (2) fitness for the presidency.

The debate raged behind the scenes for three days in Washington, and then was carried to Chicago by Harry Hopkins, the president's personal emissary. When Hopkins left the capital the field had been narrowed down to six possibilities: Douglas, Hull, Byrnes, Speaker Bankhead, Secretary Wallace, and Governor Stark of Missouri.

Eliminated on various counts were Vice President Jack Garner (who was neither consulted nor directly informed about what was going on throughout the secret pre-convention conferring); Senator Burt Wheeler, personally objectionable to Roosevelt; Attorney General Bob Jackson, because he also comes from New York; Jim Farley, for the same reason; Paul McNutt; Senate Leader Alben Barkley; House Leader Sam Rayburn; and a number of lesser lightning-rod hopefuls.

Reluctant Candidates.

Two of the possibilities definitely do not want the nomination—Hull and Douglas. It will take a personal plea from Roosevelt to persuade them to run, and he'll have to do some tall talking. Both have stated categorically they want to be left alone.

Hull even has gone to the length of sending a personal emissary to Chicago to give emphasis to his disclaimers. The secret emissary is Albert Gore, young congressman from Carthage, Tenn., who holds the seat Hull filled for many years in the House. Gore is not a delegate and did not intend to go to the convention until Hull asked him to do so last Wednesday.

He summoned Gore to the state department, told him that he did not want the vice presidency and was determined to retire to private life after he stepped out of the cabinet. He also gave Gore certain personal reasons, which the young congressman told his wife were so private he could not even repeat them to her.

"I have only one desire, Albert," Hull declared with deep feeling, as he paced back and forth, "and that is to spend the rest of my life as a private citizen promoting peace among the peoples of the world. I don't want to stay in politics any longer. I don't want to run for anything, not even for president. I want to work as a private citizen for peace and goodwill among men. Humanity needs that so desperately."

Note—If Douglas is nominated the news will come to him at his old home in Washington State, where he is vacationing with his wife and two children.

Third-Termer Ickes.

The man who can claim credit for being the first to propose a third term, and for constantly gouging and pushing the president into running, is his heli-and-high-water secretary of the interior, Harold Ickes.

Ickes first proposed that Roosevelt run again in a radio broadcast on July 25, 1938. At his next press conference, Ickes faced a barrage of questions. "Was that talk inspired by any outside source?" he was asked.

"Of course not; I thought it up all by myself."

"Did you ever speak to anybody beforehand?"

"No, I didn't ask Papa whether I could say it," Ickes shot back.

Ickes followed this with an article in a picture magazine given wide publicity, in which he cited reasons for a third term, and he kept hammering the idea home every chance he got. Right on the eve of the convention he debated the issue with Alf Landon in newspaper articles for "The American Forum." Ickes still says, however, that at no time did he ever get any definite word from "Papa."

Convention Chaff.

Women are playing a big role in this convention; in fact their most important at any national political convention. In addition to a record representation of 500 out of 2,000 delegates and alternates, the women also are well represented on all the important committees. Eighteen women leaders in various fields are acting as an Advisory committee to the platform makers . . . Representative Jack Nichols of Oklahoma sporting a new pair of breath-taking cowboy boots and a ten-gallon hat, is attending the convention "just to show the folks from home the sights in town." He is not a delegate . . . Democratic members of Congress are more numerous in Chicago than their Republican colleagues were in Philadelphia. . . . Airline officials say the Democrats seem more air-minded than the GOP. Plane reservations to Chicago were three times greater than to Philadelphia.

McNutt Hoodoo.

Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt certainly is the jinx candidate of the Democrats.

Every time things seemed to be picking up for the Hoosier Apollo, up popped some break of hard luck that knocked his burning presidential ambitions galley-west. The last time that happened was after Wendell Willkie's nomination.

To Administrationites this was a startling blow. But to the McNutt camp it looked like the happy turn they had been waiting for so long. The GOP nominee is an Indianan, and the McNutt camp figured this put their man out in front as the logical vice presidential choice.

But first R. Earl Peters, close friend of Jim Farley, threatened to challenge the election of Frank McHale as Democratic National Committeeman and chairman of the Indiana delegation. McHale is McNutt's campaign manager, and Peters charged that his election was wangled by guile.

Then came the second, and finishing blow. Word leaked out that McNutt had had to pay $3,000 to settle a tax claim uncovered by Treasury agents during their investigation of big-shot Hoosier Democrats.

Previously Bowman Elder, another McNutt lieutenant, had quietly paid $83,000 to settle a Treasury tax claim. There is no direct connection between the two cases. Elder's grew out of his handling of funds for the "Two Per Cent club;" McNutt's reportedly out of card winnings while High Commissioner of the Philippines.

The tax disclosure was the finish. After that McNutt's boom collapsed completely and for good.

The Friendly Cow

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR Jersey cow stays in the lot toward the creek. She drinks from the overflowing pond and wades, half hidden, in the calamus swamp. Her life is a placid one and she adds a note of gentle confidence and well being to our scheme of living.

Among the Pennsylvania Dutch, it was the custom for women to do the milking. My mother and sisters did that chore at home, and it happens that I have never completely milked a cow in all my life. To be sure I have tried, and with some success.

It's merely a matter of push and pull, with a dash of squeeze. Invariably, though, before I can finish, someone takes offense at my awkwardness and the slowness of my delivery and pities the poor cow. I am forced to yield the pail to other, more agile hands.

Milking is such a pleasant task—so regular and so remunerative. A cow is such a docile, fragrant animal! To sit upon a stool beside her for a half hour or so a day and fill a pail with foamy yellow milk is such a jolly, profitable occupation! I envy my wife whenever I see her do it!

Then the byproducts—cold milk for children's drinking; golden butter, tasty buttermilk and cottage cheese; warm milk for the new family of kittens at the barn; thick clabber for the hen with baby chicks.

Beside the spring is a hinged box, where the water flows through. Milk will keep sweet there for a week, should that be necessary. Our children suggest that we get an ice cream freezer next. The idea isn't a bad one, these hot days.

Stevenson wrote.

"The friendly cow, all red and white, I love with all my heart.
She gives me cream with all her might, to eat on apple tart."

R. L. S. didn't have a thing on us. Our Jersey, named Betsy, is an equally lovable substitute.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

GREEK LETTER GROUPS CONDUCT TWO SESSIONS

Kappa Kappa Kappa Appoints Membership Committee: Delta Theta Tau Honors Mrs. Heston at Bridge Party.

MEETINGS of Greek letter groups provided some diversion in the Mansfield area last night. Members of Kappa Kappa Kappa had a session with Miss June Adams, 182 West Fourth street, at which time Mrs. Alex Schwaner served as associate hostess. Miss Virginia Gerke conducted the business.

The membership committee was appointed and includes Miss Grace Lewis, Miss Janet Gadfield, Mrs. Glenn Bethea and Mrs. Ernest Fuller. Games and contests followed with Mrs. Bethea winning the prize.

Members were served refreshments buffet style. The next session will be held July 29 with Mrs. Fuller, Raleigh avenue. Mrs. Bethea will be the associate hostess.

A party honoring Mrs. Howard Heston, the former Miss Virginia Anderson, was held last night at the Susie Janis home by members of Delta Theta chapter of Delta Theta Tau. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Edward Channell, Mrs. Lyle Jones, Mrs. Carl Adams, and Mrs. B. H. Esgar.

Bridge was played, and prizes awarded to Miss Thelma Reed and Miss Margaret Black. These gifts were presented to the honoree. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with pastel shades and mixed garden flowers. Following the serving of refreshments Miss Reed reported on the recent national convention which was held in Columbus.

Members will have a picnic Aug. 12. Mrs. Heston is chairman, and arrangements will be announced later.

Once 'Fatty'

The charmer above, Beatrice Pallister, was once 25 pounds overweight, and just look at her now. Now a highly paid model, Mrs. Pallister attributes her figure to a few simple rules—regularity of hours, eliminating of sweets, starches and fats in her diet, and plenty of exercise. By that she means riding four or five times a week, long walks in low heeled shoes, skiing in the winter time and plenty of tennis in the summer.

Bucyrus Friends Attend Marriage In Springfield

BUCYRUS—A number of Bucyrus friends attended the wedding in Springfield Saturday of Miss Dorothy M. Schirmer of Cincinnati, formerly of Bucyrus and Joseph Leo Swan of Springfield.

Miss Mary Fligor of Bucyrus, a close friend of the bride, was her only attendant. Jesse Swan, brother of the bridegroom served him as best man.

Mrs. Swan has been on the nursing staff at Children's hospital for several years. She attended Bucyrus high school when the family made their home here.

Attending the wedding from Bucyrus were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beal, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. C. Fligor, Miss Allene Fligor and Mary Fligor.

The couple will make their home in Shelby where Mr. Swan was recently transferred by the N. Y. C. railroad of which he is an employe.

CLUB HAS OUTING.

Members of the Carpenter Mothersingers club had a picnic at North Lake park last night which was attended by 47. The evening was spent informally. Those in charge were Wilma Campbell and Mrs. Alwilda Manross. The group will meet at the First Methodist church next Monday evening for rehearsal.

They will stop in Chicago on their return trip. Mr. Rorick returned to Mansfield Monday evening.

HONOR BIRTHDAY.

A group of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dickson, Possum Run road, last night to celebrate Mrs. Dickson's birthday. Games were played during the evening, and luncheon was served. The honoree was presented with a shower of gifts.

Summer Activities Limited; Writer Looks To September

MOST of us have been busy enough through the recent summer (?) days with such activities as bridge, golf, swimming and picnicking but such social pursuits, although interesting enough to those who participate, offer very little in the way of grist for the society typewriters.

So today we conceived the idea of looking ahead to September, and giving you a preview of those events which are already planned for early fall. As you all know the programs of the study and literary clubs will be resumed at that time, but some of the smaller organizations—which are taking time out during August—will begin anew with the arrival of autumn days.

Although the Dolly Madisons enjoy a year round activity, they generally suspend for August, so that their next regularly scheduled session will be a dinner party at Lexington on Sept. 3. However, they will be guests of the Martha Jefferson club of Shelby and Plymouth at a tea Aug. 6 at the home of Mrs. Ida Fleming, Plymouth. Mrs. Cecil Schill is in charge of transportation for Mansfield members.

The program of the Rachel France guild of the First Presbyterian church will be resumed Sept. 9 when Mrs. Mabel Alverson, 100 Rowland avenue, assisted by Mrs. Mary Carter and Mrs. Jeannette Eichin entertains. Also in church circles will be the session of the St. Luke's Lutheran church Women's guild when members gather at the church Sept. 12.

Members of the St. Peter's Sewing circle have chosen the same date to meet at the home of Mrs. Edward Haas, Park avenue west road, for a noon covered-dish dinner. On Sept. 13 the Helping Hand Bible class of the First Presbyterian church will meet, and details of this session will be disclosed later.

DETACHABLE TRIM

On or off in a jiffy is the decorative theme in a group of American-made, summer washable doeskins. The gloves themselves are made in the new "shortie" length, hand-stitched and buttoned with a pearl button. Then there is another button on the back of the cuff, to which a perky bow is attached. The bows are striped or dotted linen, novelty cottons, organdie or taffeta, in colors to fit in with your various summer costume plans.

FASHION RIGHT!

It's a simple task for the American woman to assemble her accessories with the utmost chic at a minimum of effort and expense, for the glove, hat, bag and shoe manufacturers are doing her color-shopping for her. This year American-made leather gloves are fashion-right for American women. They are styled by designers who are familiar with the everyday needs and desires of the women who buys them and these clear, deep colors are carefully coordinated to match and blend with other American-made accessories.

Regular Duties Ease Strain

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Most families will be at home—all summer. Since school let out the mother may have been under increased nervous strain because the children are home all day and every day. In many homes there are more irritations during vacation, more quarreling among the children, more hours of noise and commotion.

Also there may be more strain on the nerves of the children; more strain on the pre-school child who used to be left at home while his older brother or sister went to school; even more strain on the child who had been going to school. For many, if not for most children, the regularity of going to school and the variety of the day's experience afford good emotional outlets.

On the other hand, release from school can have a very relaxing effect on the school child in the well-ordered home.

Plan Summer Program.

Let me urge you, my fellow parent, to work out a program with the children and for the children during the summer. Let your children share in arriving at this program. Then they will be the more ready to abide by it. Besides, that family atmosphere is most wholesome in which all members feel they have a part.

Of course, human nature is such that children won't always, not even generally, choose to assign themselves regular jobs which mean hard work and self-denials. Often the parents will have to assign these responsibilities and employ some coercion to guarantee their fulfillment. No use to fool ourselves that all these jobs can be made attractive by clever motivation: just see that they are done. Even then, the assignment should appear to the child more just and reasonable if he felt free to talk with his parents beforehand about its nature and purpose.

Each child over five or six should have some definite daily responsibilities during the summer, which he can't escape, no matter how many maids there are. In the average home (which has no maid) the child or children should have a definite share in the regular cares of the house. If there are two or more children over ten or twelve (boys or girls), much of the house work can be done by these children, the mother supervising calmly and having abundant time for relaxation and recreation.

Let the main house chores be done right after breakfast, with opportunity, perhaps, for a free hour or so in the morning and two or three hours in the afternoon. A quiet period of about two hours early in the afternoon is very desirable. A good time then to sleep, loll or read. I wish children would read more during the summer, and that more of them and their parents would go to the public library.

Some of the school-age children should take music lessons and do regular practice during the summer.

Homemade Bologna Tasty

By BETSY NEWMAN

• • •

Potato Salad.

½ lb. bacon
1 tbsp. flour
Freshly boiled potatoes

⅓ cup vinegar
½ cup water

Cut bacon in small crosswise strips and fry crisp. To 3 tablespoons bacon fat add the flour, blend. Add salt and slowly add vinegar and water. Let come to boil and pour over sliced, freshly boiled potatoes and mix gently, so as not to break the slices of potatoes. Serve hot.

2 level tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
½ cup cornmeal
2 cups graham flour
½ cup molasses or water
½ cup brown sugar

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Are you going to obey me?" My husband's voice was coldly menacing.

"All right, I get you," the man replied, and with his hands still in the air, turned his back toward the thicket and began his slow, ticklish journey toward us.

"Come very carefully," Dicky directed. "Feel with your foot for each step. I'll tell you if you come to anything specially bad."

"Thanks for nothing," the man growled.

"Oh! that's all right, pal," Dicky said airily. "Always anxious to oblige. But when I told you to come slowly and carefully I didn't intend you should crawl. Make it a little snappier. I can't wait all day."

Dicky's words were flippant, but his tone conveyed a distinct menace, and the man, who patently had been stalling for time in his backward movement increased his pace, while in no wise diminishing his caution, and soon had reached the edge of the thicket, where he stopped short.

"What's the big idea of stopping?" Dicky queried. "The brush won't hurt you. Shut your eyes so a stray twig won't scratch them, and keep wriggling back until I tell you to stop. Just remember that I'm engineering this little party, not you, but for your comfort I'll tell you now that I won't let the big bad brush hurt you. Just keep moving. That's all I'm asking you.

The man obeyed, and in another second or two was inside the thicket with us. Dicky halted him when his back was directly opposite Leslie.

"Stand right where you are while I frisk you," he said. "Keep those hands up, I tell you"—his voice was a venomous snarl as the man attempted to lower his arms—"another move like that and I'll give you the works. And remember, I can shoot with one hand while I'm frisking you with the other—don't make any mistake on that."

The Leslie gang were well armed, I deduced, from the number of revolvers and knives which Dicky took from the chauffeur's various hidden pockets. He even removed his shoes, finding small knives secreted in each.

"Quite an arsenal," he commented when he had finished. Don't get impatient, boy," he adjured the chauffeur, who was holding first one foot and then the other from contact with the ground, chilly with autumn coolness. "You'll have your shoes on in a minute. Here, Bo!" he addressed me directly, with no flicker of recognition in his eyes, but I knew from the twitching of his lips that he was suppressing laughter with difficulty, even in the face of so dangerous an emergency as we were facing. "Take these playthings as I hand them to you, and you and your pal take turns in unloading them. Then toss them behind you in a neat little pile until wanted. But don't take your mind or your eyes off your real job while you're attending to this one. Understand?"

I keyed my voice again.

"Okay. I get you," I said.

"Don't hurry," he adjured me. "Take your time! That's the thing we've got most of just now."

Cultivate Pleasant Voice

By MME. QUI VIVE

Millions of money is spent each year for beauty treatments and beauty aids. Millions more on grand dry-goods. Women strive to attain qualities of charm. And there is no quality that has a greater appeal than a pleasing voice.

Do you really know anything about your voice, how it strikes upon the ear of the listener? Have you ever thought about it? If it is a nice voice, many an individual will have told you about it. If it isn't, they bear with it in silence; it is a subject upon which even the most intimate friend dares not venture. Considering how many unpleasant voices there are, it must be that women just don't care.

Suppose the members of this beauty class test their voices, retire to their own rooms, read aloud for ten minutes. That's one way to find out about how they pronounce their words, whether or not they twang on one key and do a sing-song.

The list of offenders is long. There is the fast gabbler who keeps on at a quick pace, fearful that she may be interrupted, deprived of her talking rights. Words fall over each other. On she rushes, doing a conversational marathon and nobody can stop her.

Consider the whiner, a pest if there ever was one. In course of time she develops the whiner's face—sagging jowls, lip ends down, eyes dull. She indulges in self-pity, a devastating force that robs her of good looks.

It is a mistake to give emphasis to every other word. You know what I mean. Everything is wonderful. This type is a vocal riveter. Thump! Thump! Until the ear drums ache.

Keep the throat passage open, don't have the vocal chords tense. Learn to be a deep breather. Endeavor to cultivate resonance in your voice. Avoid the nasal twang. Pronounce your words clearly. And don't talk unless you have something interesting to say. That rule is going to bother a lot of girls, I am afraid. One must remember that the whole world is gabbling all the time, and most of it is all about nothing. Much energy is wasted.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

MORE THAN HE NEEDED

CAN YOU imagine a declarer playing for a No Trump grand slam, who has 12 set-up tricks in sight, no chance to finesse for the thirteenth, and yet makes his big slam by means of squeezing when he still has an extra card left in his long suit? It is almost as if he could cut down the length of his long suit by one card, exchanging it for an utterly worthless card in some other suit, and still be just as well off.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Pass
7 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl

Harry Goldwater, brilliant nephew of New York's famous health commissioner of the same name, negotiated his grand slam on this rubber bridge deal by means of a squeeze which operated earlier than necessary. He won the heart J lead with dummy's A, feeling sure that the doubling West would not have led from the K. Next he took the singleton diamond K, finessed the club Q, dropped the K with the A and then ran clubs.

When the next to last club was led, East was squeezed. He had held to four spades to guard against a possible four in the South hand, also the heart K to protect against the Q and two diamonds to keep the dummy from setting up a little one. But after the dummy discarded his heart 5 on the next to last club, East was out of luck. Rather than toss a diamond and build up a little one in the dummy, or his heart K, he picked a spade.

The damage was already done, the fourth spade being now set up, and the extra discard of another spade East made on the next trick was not necessary to render him impotent to damage the declarer. The ninth trick went to the spade A, tenth to the diamond A for a discard of the heart Q, and South's last three tricks were his spades.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, July 17.

STRESS and storm, with problems and perplexities dominate on this day according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be delays and disappointments, with much concern pertaining to finances. Much wrangling about contracts, writings or legal documents is presaged although the major element of anxiety may be found in domestic, social or emotional disturbances.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which discretion and complacency may turn woe and regret into gratification and harmony, this especially in the private life, social, domestic and romantic. In such relations there is sign of delays, disappointments and obstacles, with uncertainty and discord about money matters.

A child born on this day may be disposed to impetuosity and outbursts of temperament, although not malicious and unkindly. However, it may keep the household on tenterhooks, unless disciplined in early youth.

Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY

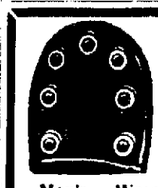

Propagating Black Raspberries.

Black and purple raspberries have biennial stems. This means the stems grow out from a perennial root the first year. The second year they bear fruit, after which they die.

These bushes are easily propagated however, by "tip-layering," as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. In July or August, cover the ends of new stems with soil, as illustrated, and they will soon take root.

Early spring is the safest time to set out these "tip" plants. They should not be planted deeply. The "bud" should not be placed below the surface of the soil. Since these "tip" plants are not planted deeply, it is necessary that they be well firmed into the soil. Cut back the stems to six inches after planting.
